THIS IS PENN STATE BASEBALL

Baseball is the oldest intercollegiate sport at Penn State, dating back to its debut in 1875. This season marks the Nittany Lions' 122nd in program history due to not fielding a team for several years in the late 1800s. Penn State is one of only a select few schools to boast a team for at least 120 years.

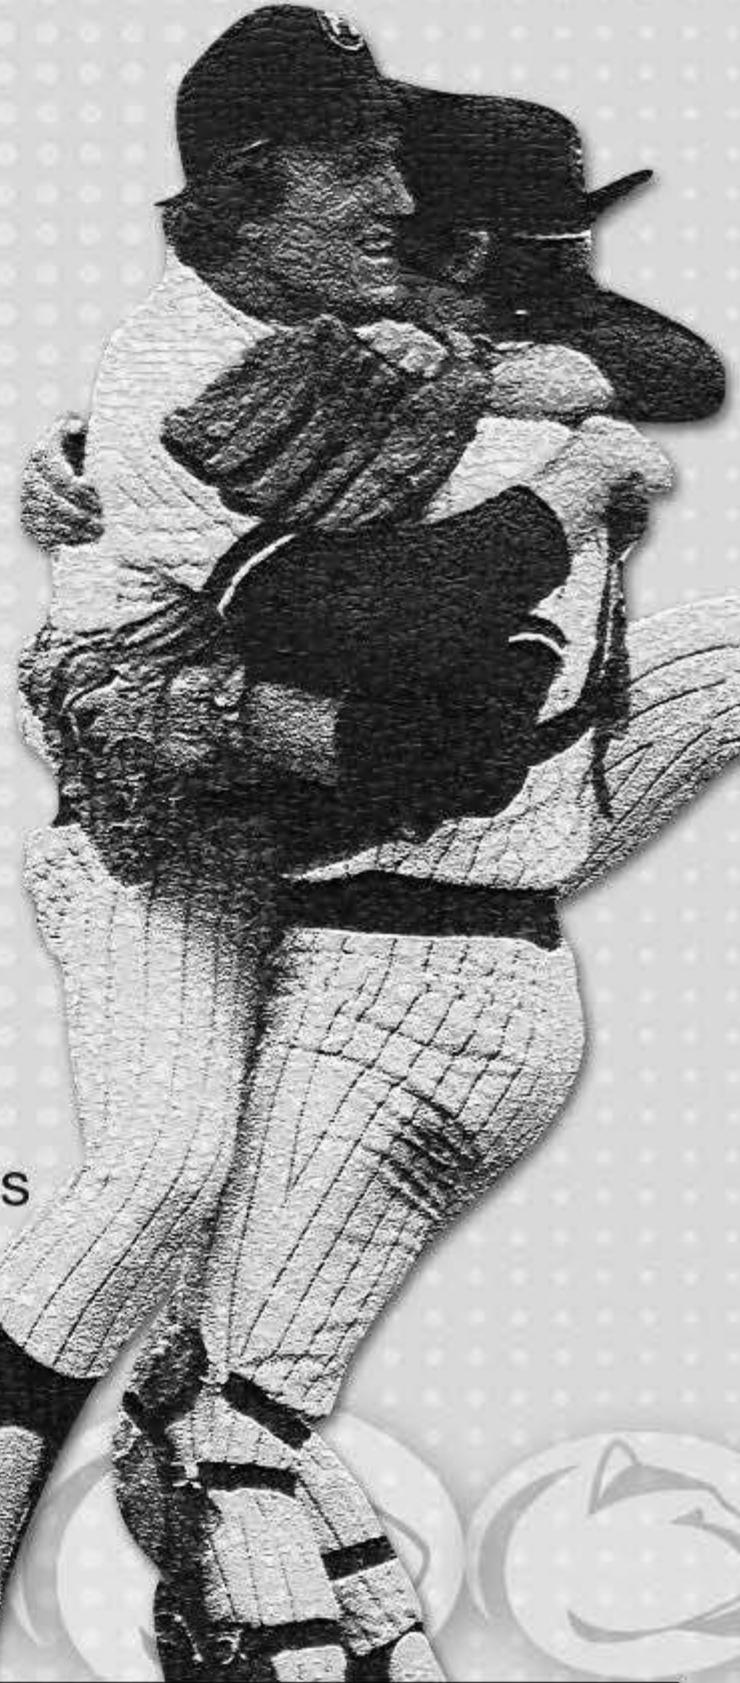

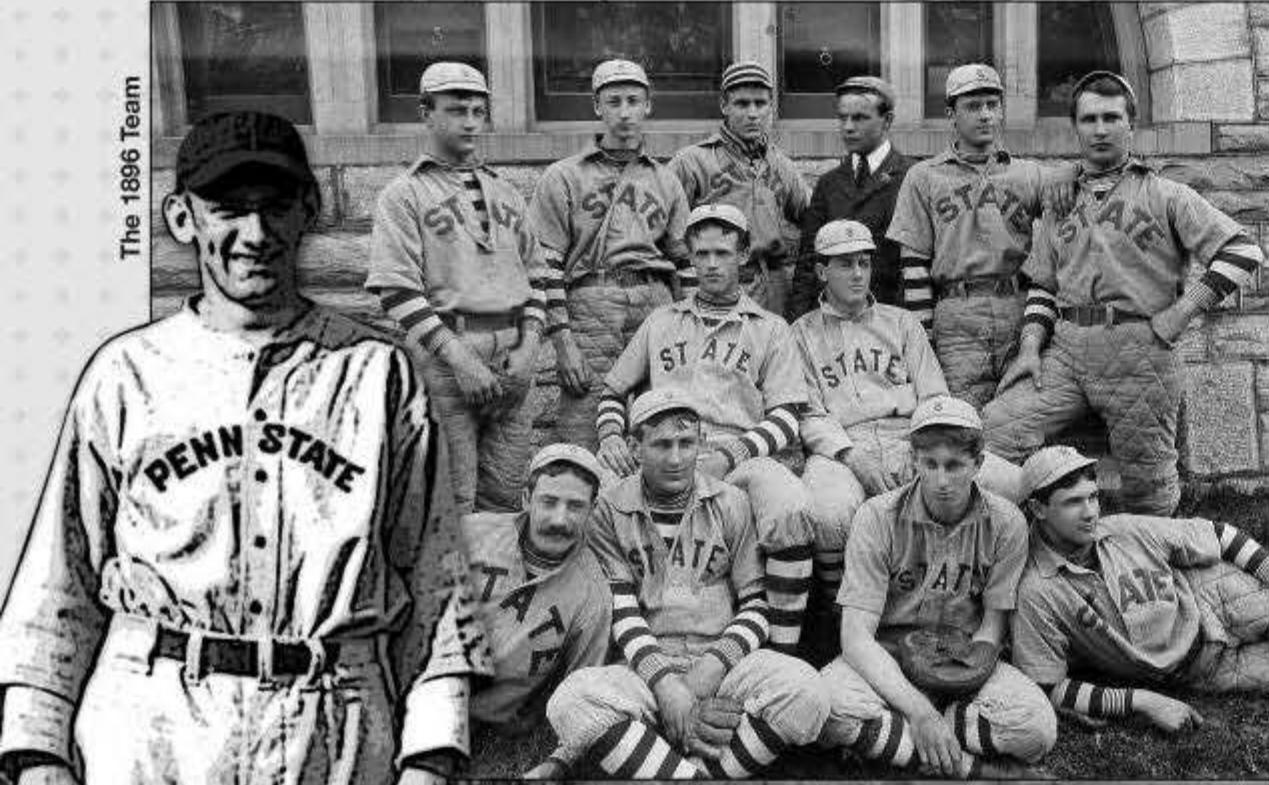

The program recently reached a milestone, playing its 3,000th game of all-time last season. Fittingly, it came against the winningest program in NCAA history, Texas, on March 1, 2009. Penn State stands in the top 50 in all-time winning percentage among schools with a minimum of 25 years in Division I. Its all-time record now stands at 1,835-1,188-21 (.606).

The 1896 Team

The 2000 Nittany Lions rode a magical season all the way to the Super Regionals, only one step away from the program's sixth College World Series Appearance.

The 1996 squad has the distinction of winning Penn State's last Big Ten Baseball Championship.

As the years progressed, changes in the intercollegiate athletic landscape saw Penn State enter the Atlantic 10 Conference where it competed from 1983-91. The Nittany Lions then moved to the Big Ten in the early 1990s leading into their first Big Ten schedule in 1992.

A PROGRAM ON THE RISE

The Penn State baseball team is on the rise under the direction of Robbie Wine. The Lions are among the Big Ten's best in a number of categories over the last three seasons (2007-09) and look to continue their upward trend in 2010.

MEDLAR FIELD AT LUBRANO PARK

A new era of Penn State baseball began in 2007 with the completion of the state-of-the-art Medlar Field at Lubrano Park, the new home of Robbie Wine's Nittany Lions. The brand new facility - completed in June of 2006 - is one of the best collegiate stadiums in the nation.

Situated in the shadow of Beaver Stadium, Medlar Field is the latest addition to Penn State's "athletic campus" being developed on the Northeast edge of the university. Along with the gigantic home of Penn State football, "the Med" joins the Bryce Jordan Center, the Multi-Sport Indoor Track Facility, the Penn State Field Hockey Complex and the newly renovated Jeffrey Field to form a collection of athletic facilities that rival any in the nation.

Located within the walls of Lubrano Park is anything and everything that a Division I baseball team needs to be successful. A spacious clubhouse welcomes the Nittany Lions with roomy wooden lockers, an expanded training room, weight room and team lounge.

Just a few steps from the locker room door is the entrance to what may be the most important room in the stadium when practice starts in early spring: the indoor batting cage. Standing two stories high and nearly half a football field in length, the cage also includes two dirt mounds for pitchers to work off of in inclement weather and opens directly into the Penn State bullpen on the right field line.

The ballpark's signature is the breathtaking view of legendary Mount Nittany, a local landmark that is near and dear to the heart of every Penn Stater. With the stadium opening to the east, spectators can peer unencumbered down the Nittany Valley for miles. On a clear day, Tussey Mountain Ski Resort can be seen from 10 miles away.

Perhaps the best view in the stadium is from head coach Robbie Wine's office located high above the first base line. Along with offices for his three assistants and a reception area, Coach Wine's office allows him to conduct recruiting and everyday business from a location that is sure to impress any visitor.

Seating capacity for Medlar Field at Lubrano Park is 5,406 and 20 luxury suites allow area companies to treat clients and friends to an unmatched baseball experience. A party deck along the right field line provides a good place for friends to gather and the picnic pavilion beyond the left field fence is perfect for birthday parties and group outings.

Much like the rest of the park, the dimensions of the playing field are unique as well. A relatively short 325 feet to the left field pole stretches out to the deepest part of the park, the 410 foot nook in left-center field. Straight-away center is 399 feet away and the 320 foot right field fence is made more daunting with an 18.55 feet high wall, which commemorates the year Penn State was founded.

A 2,500 square foot press box can accommodate traveling and local media and has private broadcast booths for up to three radio or television teams. A large video scoreboard towers above the left field wall capable of providing up to the minute stats and video replays.

The stadium is named for 1982 Penn State graduate Anthony P. Lubrano and former Nittany Lion Head Coach Charles "Chuck" Medlar. Lubrano, a Nittany Lion baseball letterman, chose to honor his college coach with a generous financial gift toward the realization of the long-discussed project. Coach Medlar served at the helm of the Penn State program for 19 years and guided the Lions to two College World Series appearances.

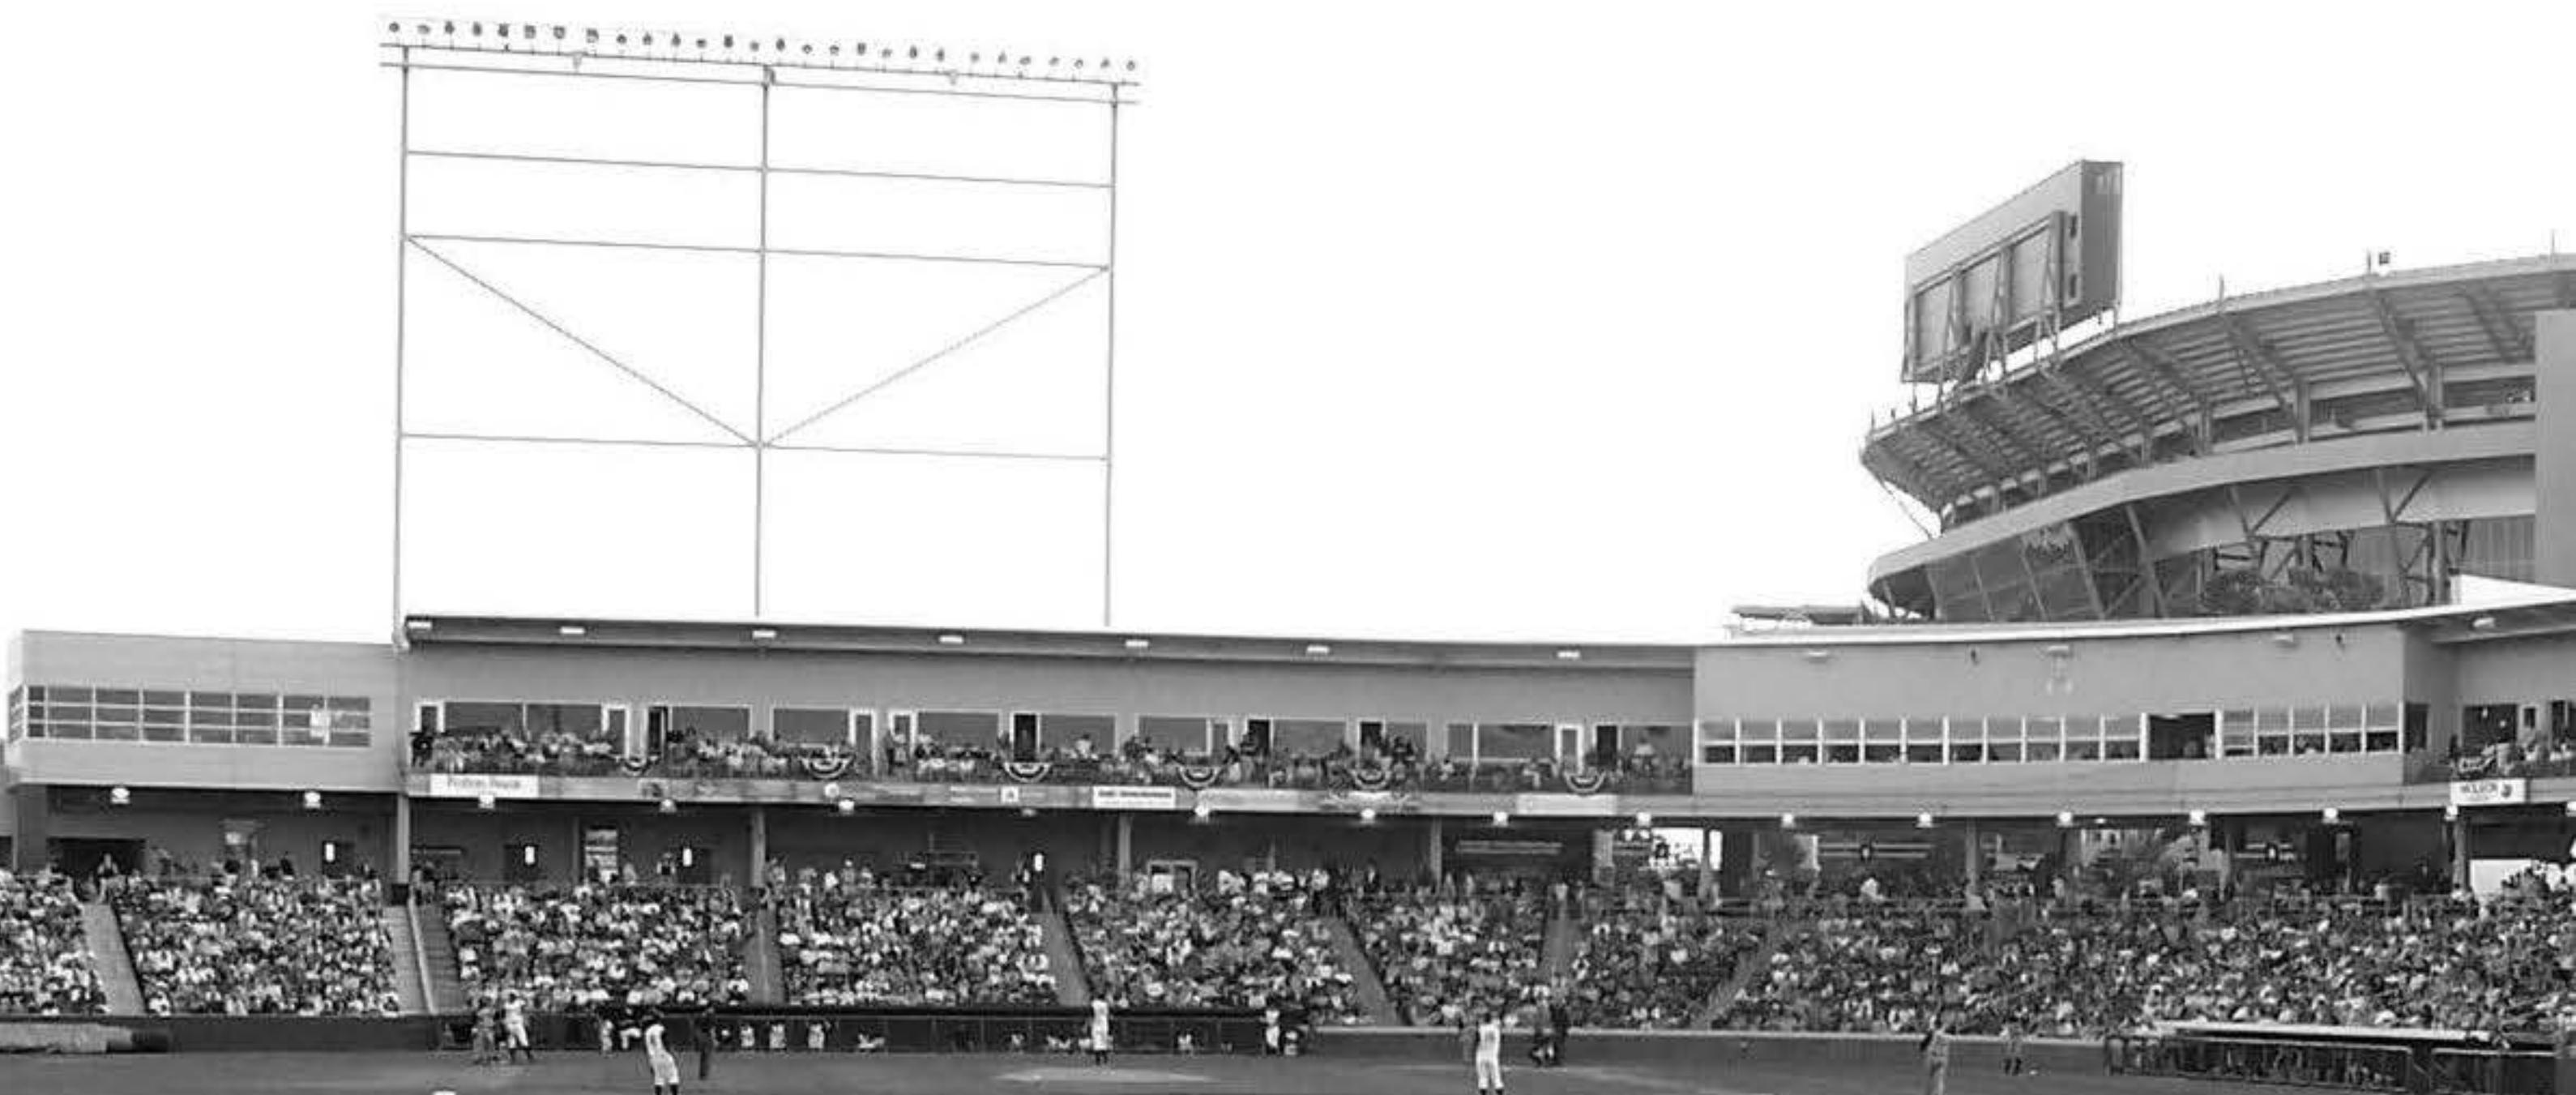

A UNIQUE RELATIONSHIP

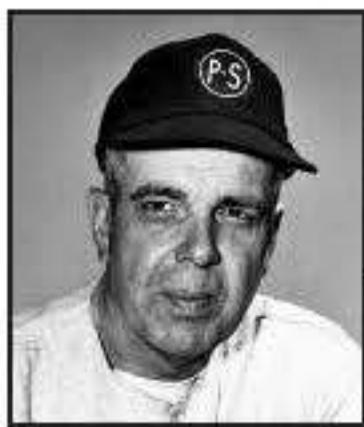

A key aspect of the development of Medlar Field at Lubrano Park was the unique relationship formed between Penn State Athletics and the Single-A affiliate of the Pittsburgh Pirates, the State College Spikes.

The Double-A Altoona Curve bought the New Jersey Cardinals in 2005, deciding to move that franchise to State College where they would share Medlar Field at Lubrano Park with the Penn State baseball team.

More than three years in, the relationship has served both teams well. The seasons coincide perfectly with the Nittany Lions playing throughout the spring and the short-season Spikes beginning in June and finishing in early September. The facility is always in use; whatever month of the year, either the Spikes or Lions will be taking full advantage of one of the nation's premier facilities: Medlar Field at Lubrano Park.

Charles "Chuck" Medlar

Head Baseball Coach

Charles "Chuck" Medlar was a fixture at Penn State for more than 40 years. He served as the head athletic trainer for over 35 years, working primarily with the football team while also helping establish the foundation for the athletic training system at Penn State. He was later the head baseball coach and also served as an assistant professor of physical education.

Medlar first came to Happy Valley in 1938 as a three sport student-athlete (football, basketball, and baseball). He left in 1941 to play professional baseball and also served in the Navy during World War II. After the war and his professional career, Medlar returned to Penn State and earned his bachelor's and master's degrees.

Upon his graduation in 1946, Medlar was hired onto the football athletic training staff and was later promoted to head athletic trainer. During his tenure, he served under four head football coaches: Bob Higgins, Joe Bedenk, Rip Engle, and current head coach Joe Paterno.

While in this role as an athletic trainer, he also served as an assistant coach with the baseball team. He would go on to compile a 312-141-6 record in 19 years as head baseball coach from 1963-1981. He coached four All-Americans, 16 All-Region honorees, 14 Major League draft picks, all while leading the Nittany Lions to two College World Series appearances, one in his first year in 1963 and the other in 1973, the last time Penn State appeared in Omaha. Since 1985, the Penn State baseball team has honored Medlar with an annual award. The Charles Medlar Award is given annually to the team's outstanding pitcher.

Medlar was a 2000 inductee into the Pennsylvania Athletic Training Hall of Fame. He was on the U.S. athletic training staff for three Olympic Games - in 1952, 1964 and 1968 Mexico City games in which he was the head athletic trainer. Also a member of the American Baseball Coaches' Association Hall of Fame, Medlar was recognized as a Founding Father of Athletic Training in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by the Pennsylvania Athletic Trainers' Society.

"A coach, trainer, leader and friend, Chuck Medlar was larger than life to the many young people who he touched."

-Anthony P. Lubrano

Anthony P. Lubrano

Former Penn State Player

1979-82

Anthony P. Lubrano, a 1982 graduate of Penn State and former baseball letterwinner under head coach Charles Medlar, gave the major financial gift that got the baseball stadium project underway.

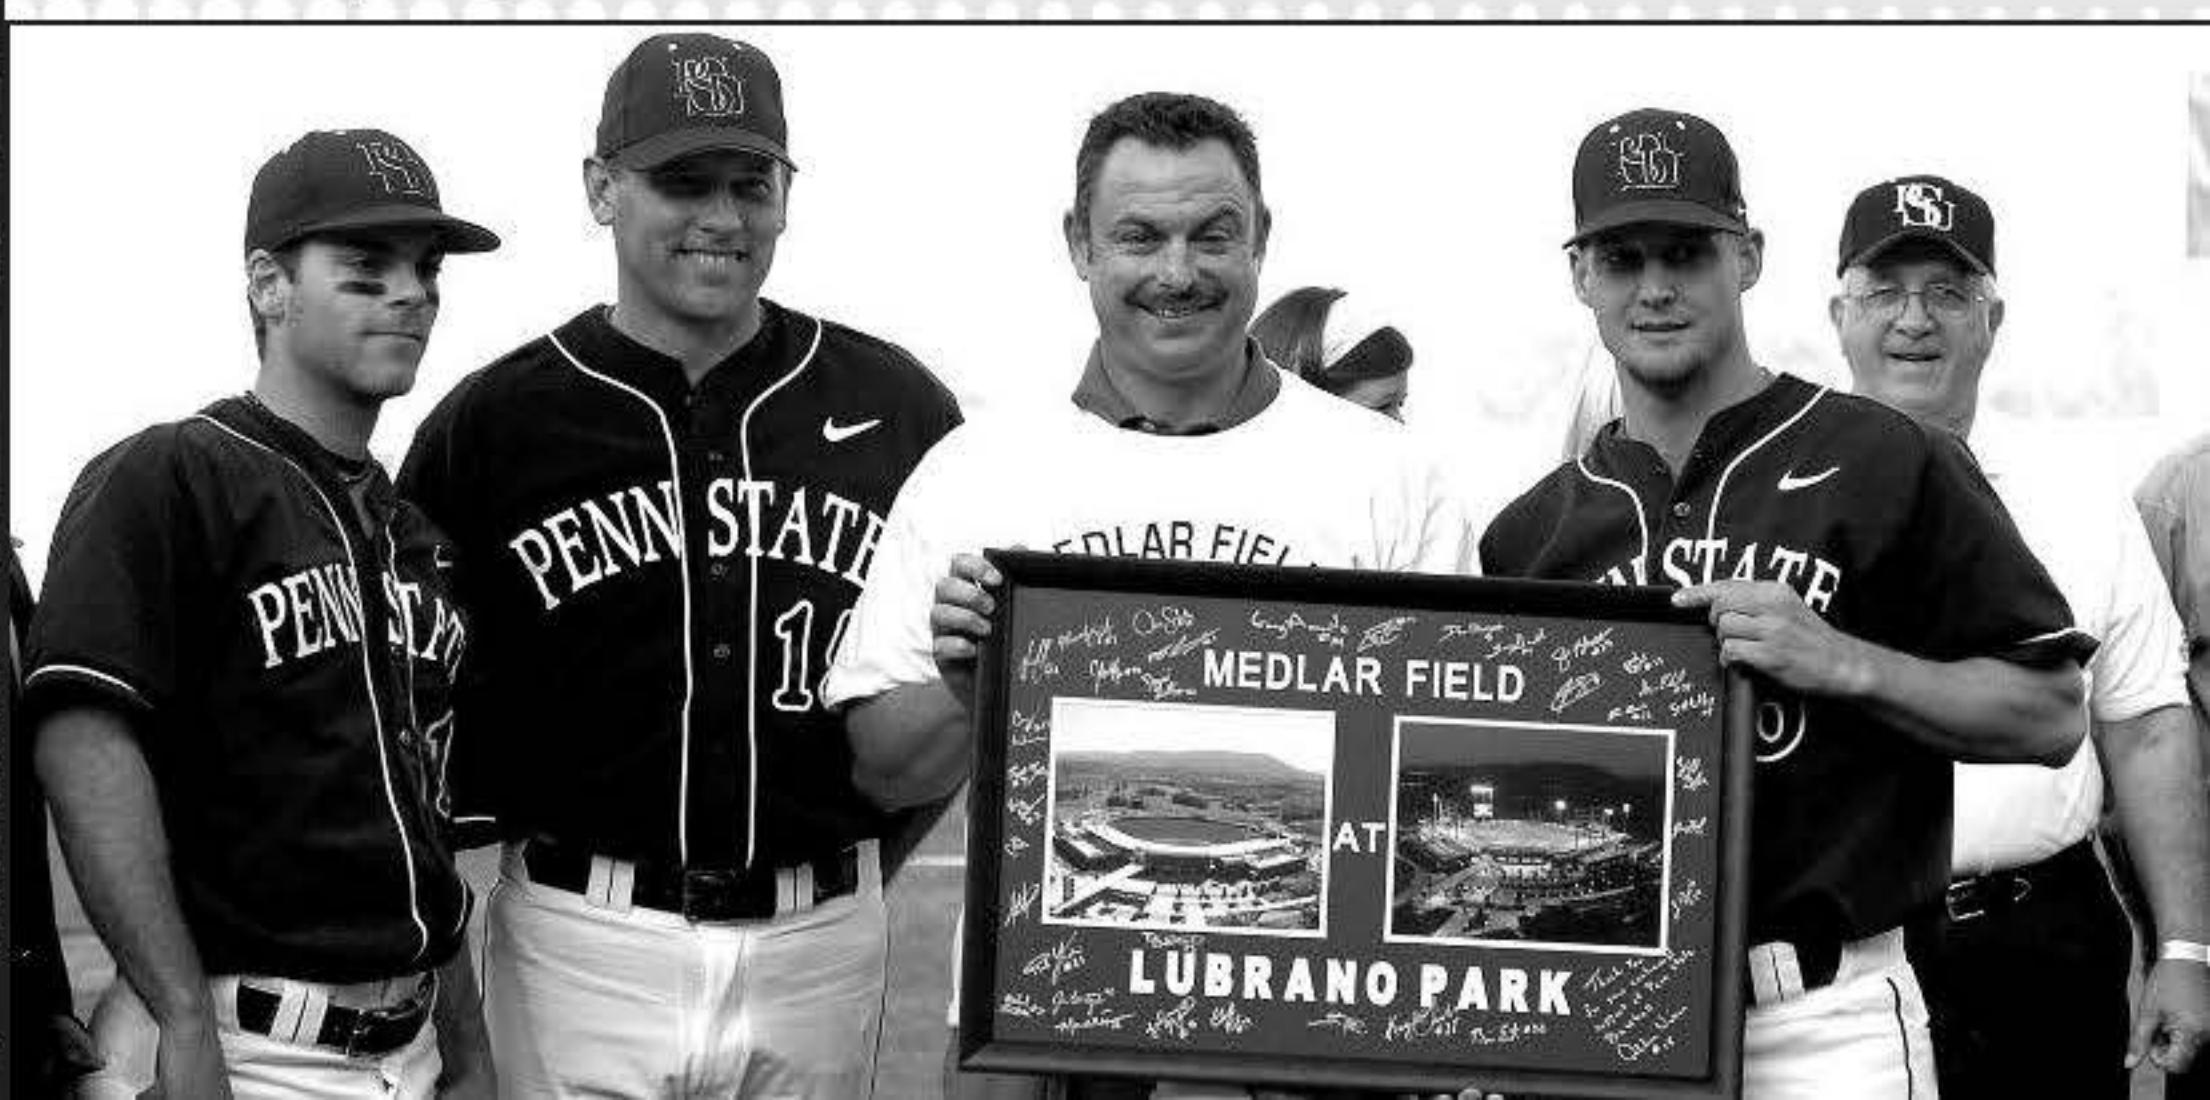

Medlar Field at Lubrano Park was named by Lubrano in honor of Chuck Medlar's outstanding career as a leader of student-athletes.

It was Lubrano who initially brought up the subject of a new baseball facility in a conversation with Athletic Director Tim Curley back in 1995. Lubrano's gift along with private donations, state and university funds and the Altoona Curve ownership group purchasing a minor league team for State College got the project off the ground. It culminated in the completion of Medlar Field at Lubrano Park on June 1, 2006.

Lubrano was a magna cum laude graduate of the Smeal College of Business with a B.S. in Accounting. After receiving his CPA while working his first job following graduation, Lubrano spent eight years with the investment banking firms of Goldman Sachs and First Boston. He was relocated to Tokyo, Japan while with First Boston, where he helped coordinate First Boston Asia Limited's successful application to become a member of the Tokyo Stock Exchange.

In 1989, Lubrano returned to the United States and started his firm, A.P. Lubrano & Company, Inc., which he serves as president. The company has nearly 6,000 clients in 46 states and manages over $300 million in assets. The firm focuses in the areas of wealth management, estate planning and group benefits.

Lubrano also currently serves on the Athletic Committee at Penn State. He resides on his farm in Glenmoore, Pa. with his wife and three daughters. His nephew, Drew Irsfeld, is a redshirt sophomore pitcher on this year's squad.

A FANTASTIC FACILITY

Medlar Field at Lubrano Park is one of the top and most comprehensive facilities in all of college baseball. It contains three clubhouses: the Penn State clubhouse (right), the Spikes clubhouse and a visitors' clubhouse, which is used for both collegiate and professional visiting teams.

Penn State's clubhouse is located just down the hall from the team lounge, which can also serve as a media room. The clubhouse contains lockers for each member of the team, couches, tables, televisions and offices along with lockers for both the head coach and assistant coaches. It is also adjacent to the showers, which are located in between the Penn State and Spikes clubhouses.

The team lounge (above) can be transformed into a media room (below).

The Penn State Lionettes Dance Team has performed at Medlar Field at Lubrano Park.

The press box can comfortably seat up to 25 media members and contains three broadcast booths along with a closed-off area for the sound, videoboard and scoreboard operators as well as the public address announcer. Located behind the open area of the press box for print media is the Penn State Sports Journalism Center, another closed-off area that can be utilized for instruction and classes.

DRAWING TOP CROWDS

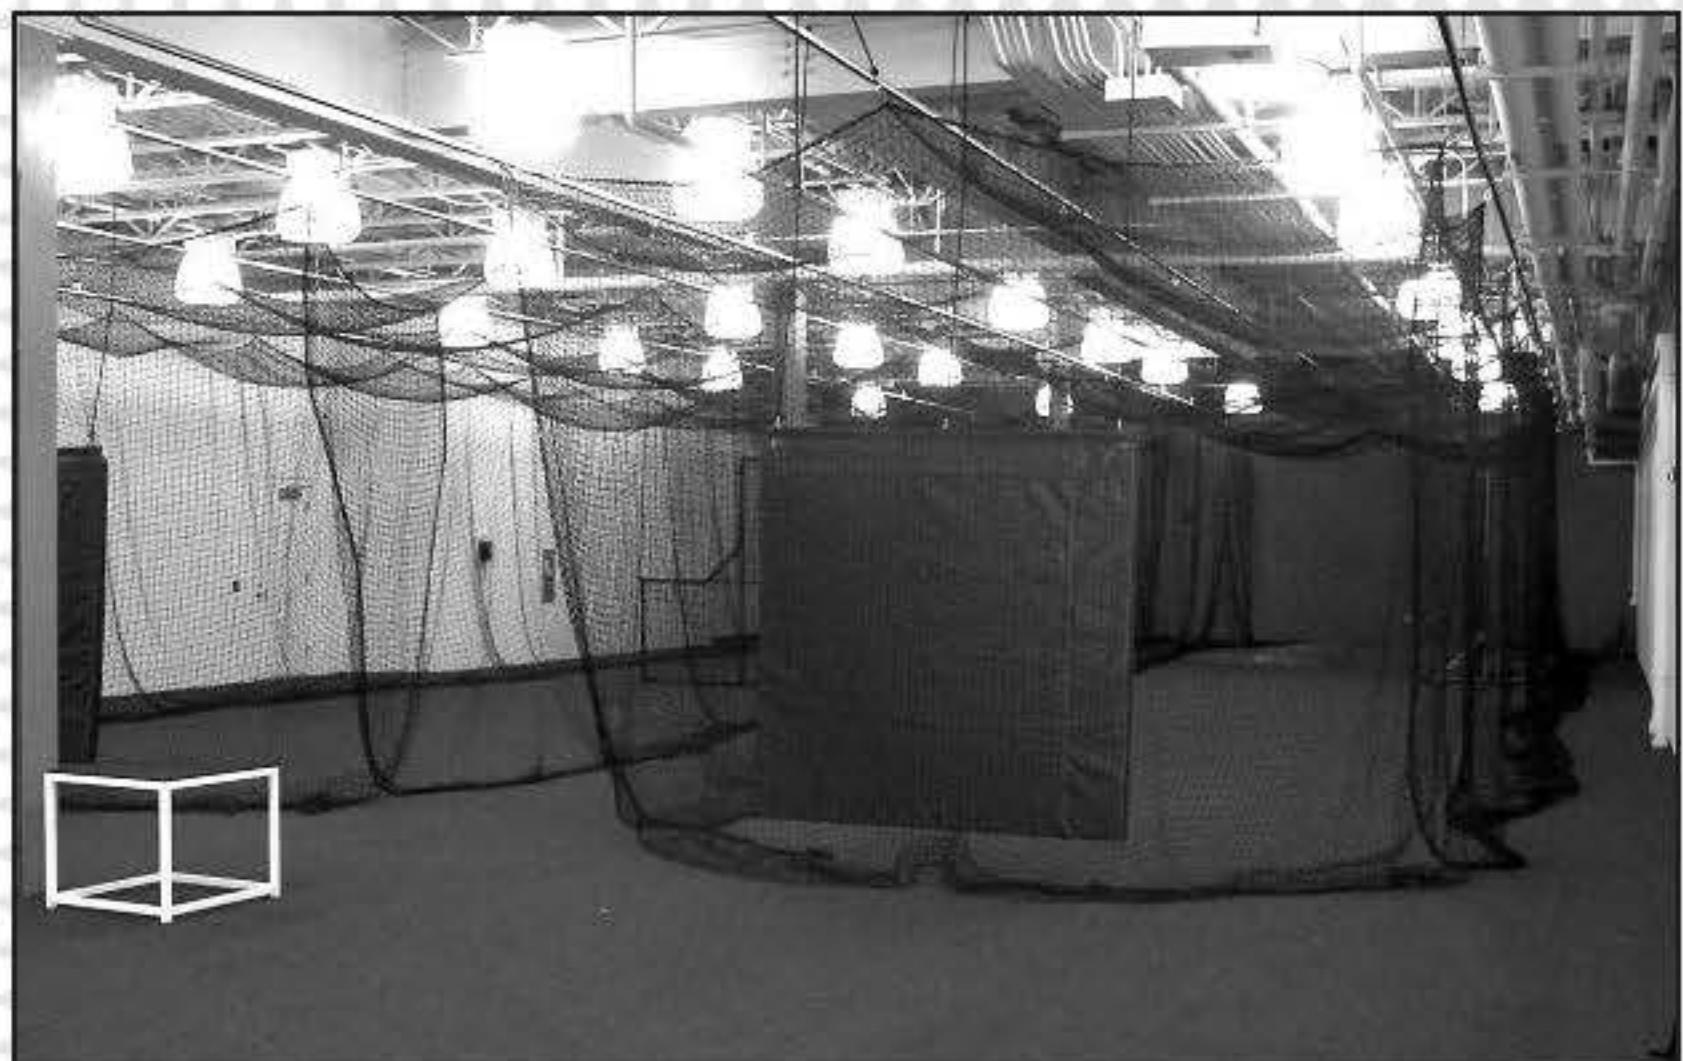

Penn State has been a big draw, with 36 crowds of 1,000 or more fans in just three years of Medlar Field at Lubrano Park's existence.

Perhaps the most important part of the stadium, in terms of practicing, is the indoor cage area (above and below). This large room contains two batting cages, which includes tain pitcher's mounds in each cage. There is also room for exercise and conditioning equipment while the room contains two pitching machines as well.

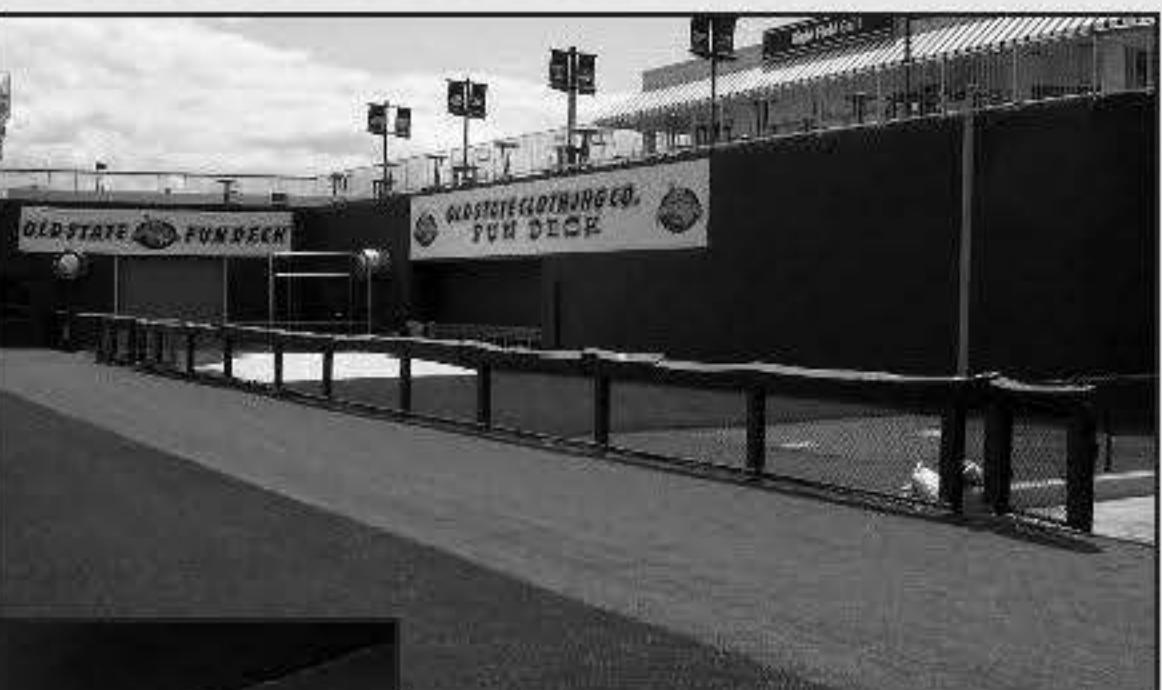

The indoor cages are located directly inside the door from the home bullpen down the right field line and just down the hallway from all three clubhouses.

STADIUM FIRSTS

FIRST STADIUM WORKOUT

MAY 17, 2006

Prior to the end of Penn State's final practice of 2006 at the old Beaver Field, head coach Robbie Wine gathered the team and revealed that they would be finishing their practice over at the new stadium, which had been a secret to all but a few individuals.

The team proceeded to conduct the first workout in the new stadium over a month before the first-ever game was played on June 20.

FIRST GAME

JUNE 20, 2006

The first organized game at Medlar Field at Lubrano Park took place on June 20, 2006 between the State College Spikes and Williamsport Crosscutters in a New York-Penn League game. St. Louis Cardinals and 2006 World Series Champion General Manager Walt Jocketty and Director of Player Development Bruce Manno were both on hand for the special occasion.

He went onto toss eight one-hit innings, only allowing one unearned run for the win. Brian Ernst led the way offensively with a 3-for-4 effort, including an RBI and two runs scored. Matt Cavagnaro, Joe Blackburn and Rob Yodice also finished the game with two hits apiece.

IN THE COMMUNITY

The Nittany Lions are consistently involved in a number of community activities, ranging from the United Way Day of Caring to raising money for the Kevin Dare Memorial Scholarship, assisting at the U.S. Paralympic Academy and much more. The squad is also involved in THON, a student-run philanthropy at Penn State whose proceeds benefit pediatric cancer treatment and research. Below is just a small sampling of what baseball has been up to.

UNITED WAY DAY OF CARING

The Penn State baseball team volunteered at the Centre Furnace Mansion this past September as part of the PNC Bank - United Way Day of Caring. Nittany Lion players and coaches performed a variety of tasks including digging, sanding, moving mulch and more.

KEVIN DARE FUNDRAISER

Six players from the baseball team volunteered at the Kevin Dare Fundraiser in September prior to the Penn State vs. Iowa primetime football game. They sold raffle tickets with other student-athletes to sell raffle tickets on behalf of the Kevin Dare Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Dare was a sophomore pole-vaulter at Penn State who tragically passed away on Feb. 23, 2002 while competing in the Big Ten Men's Indoor Track and Field Championships. Ever since, SAAB, the Student Athlete Advisory Board, has been instrumental in getting student-athletes involved in the worthy cause.

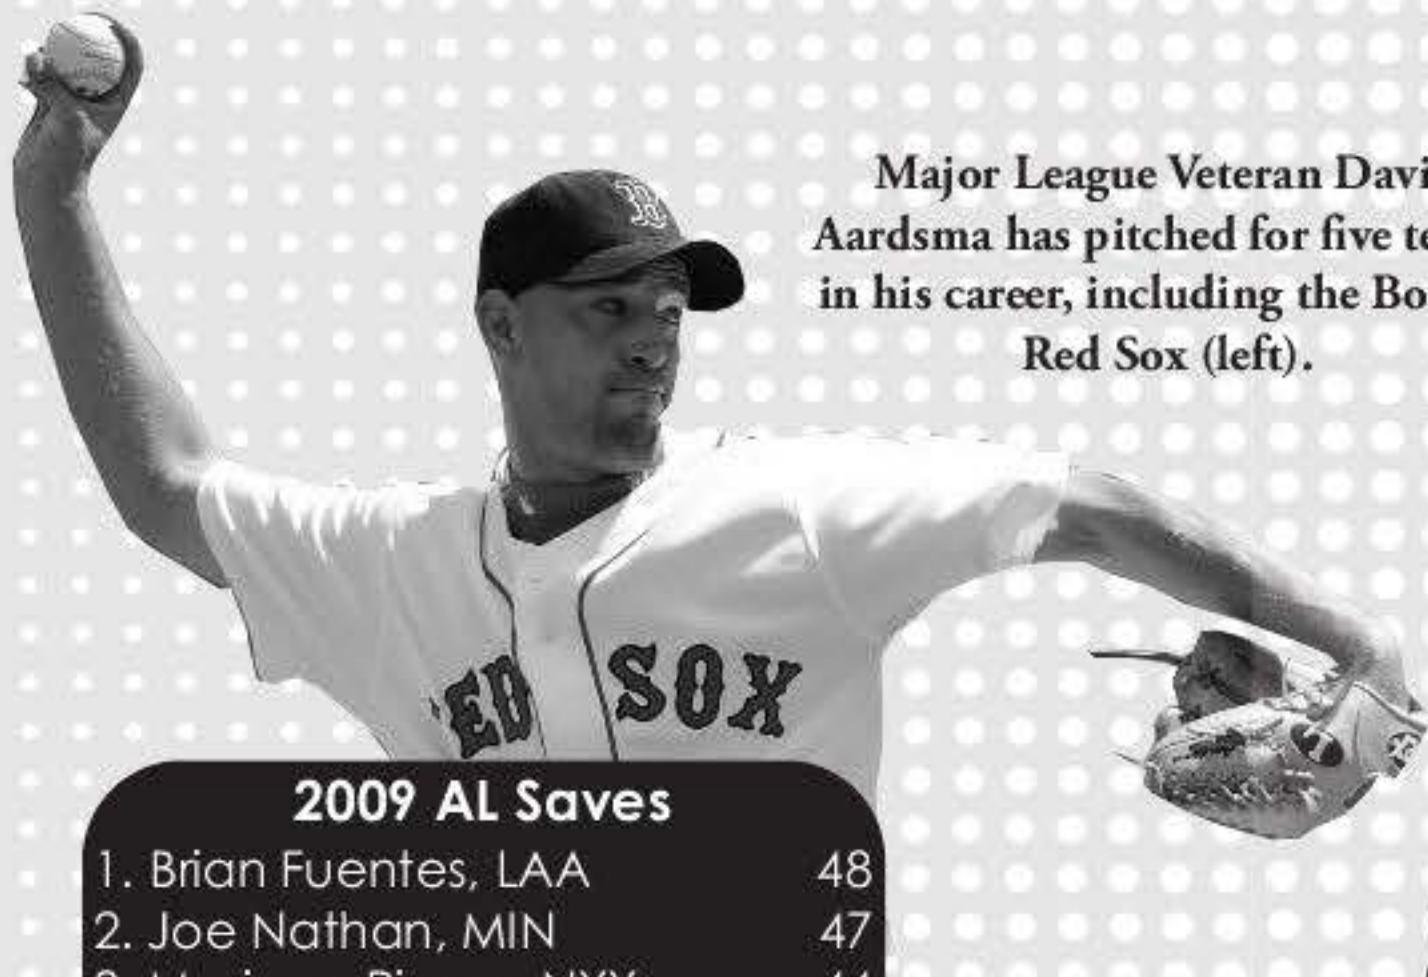

U.S. PARALYMPIC ACADEMY

Members of the baseball team volunteered time at the U.S. Paralympic Academy hosted by Penn State Ability Athletics this November. They were on hand to assist in the day that featured an introduction to Paralympic sports.

PREPARING FOR THE NEXT LEVEL

CRAIG CLARK • LHP

Clark was given his San Jose Giants Pitcher of the Year award prior to a game last summer.

On The Top-Flight Coaching Staff

"I love it up there. I always listen to Coach [Jason] Bell about his prior minor league experience. He's an awesome guy, not only as my baseball coach, but also as person. He helped me mentally on the mound [in terms of] handling my emotions. Little things. I always remember everything he told me and I'm still using it now."

Top Facilities

"I threw three years at the old field and was at the new one my last year. Having a minor league baseball field as your college field meant a lot to all of us. Moving into the new one with the locker room like we did and having the indoor baseball cages and mounds, the weight room and the lounge, I think it brought all of us closer. We all used to hang out over there."

A Well-Rounded University

"It's a well-known university, both athletically and academically. Potential employers read that you graduated from Penn State and like you right away. They're known for their academics and athletics."

Check out the brand new Nittany Lions in the Pros page on GoPSUs-sports.com to stay up-to-date on all the former Penn State players in their quest for the big leagues.

SCOTT KELLEY • RHP

What Penn State Has To Offer

"The great facilities at Penn State allow you to work year-round on a sport that would otherwise only be possible to play a couple months a year. There is also an outstanding athletic training staff whose main focus is to help you in any way possible to be a better athlete."

Top Competition

"The competition at Penn State was a huge factor in my success playing professionally. Three out of my four years, we played the No. 1 team in the country, and with our great preparation, we always expected to come away with a win. The Big Ten conference consistently produces teams ranked in the Top 25."

A World-Renowned Academic Institution

"Penn State is not only a great athletic program, but a great place to grow, both socially and academically. Meeting and living with new people was an invaluable experience I had over other players in pro ball, as was a great education from a first-class institution. I would not be where I am today without my time at Penn State. It helped me grow as an athlete and as a person."

THE IDEAL COLLEGE CAMPUS

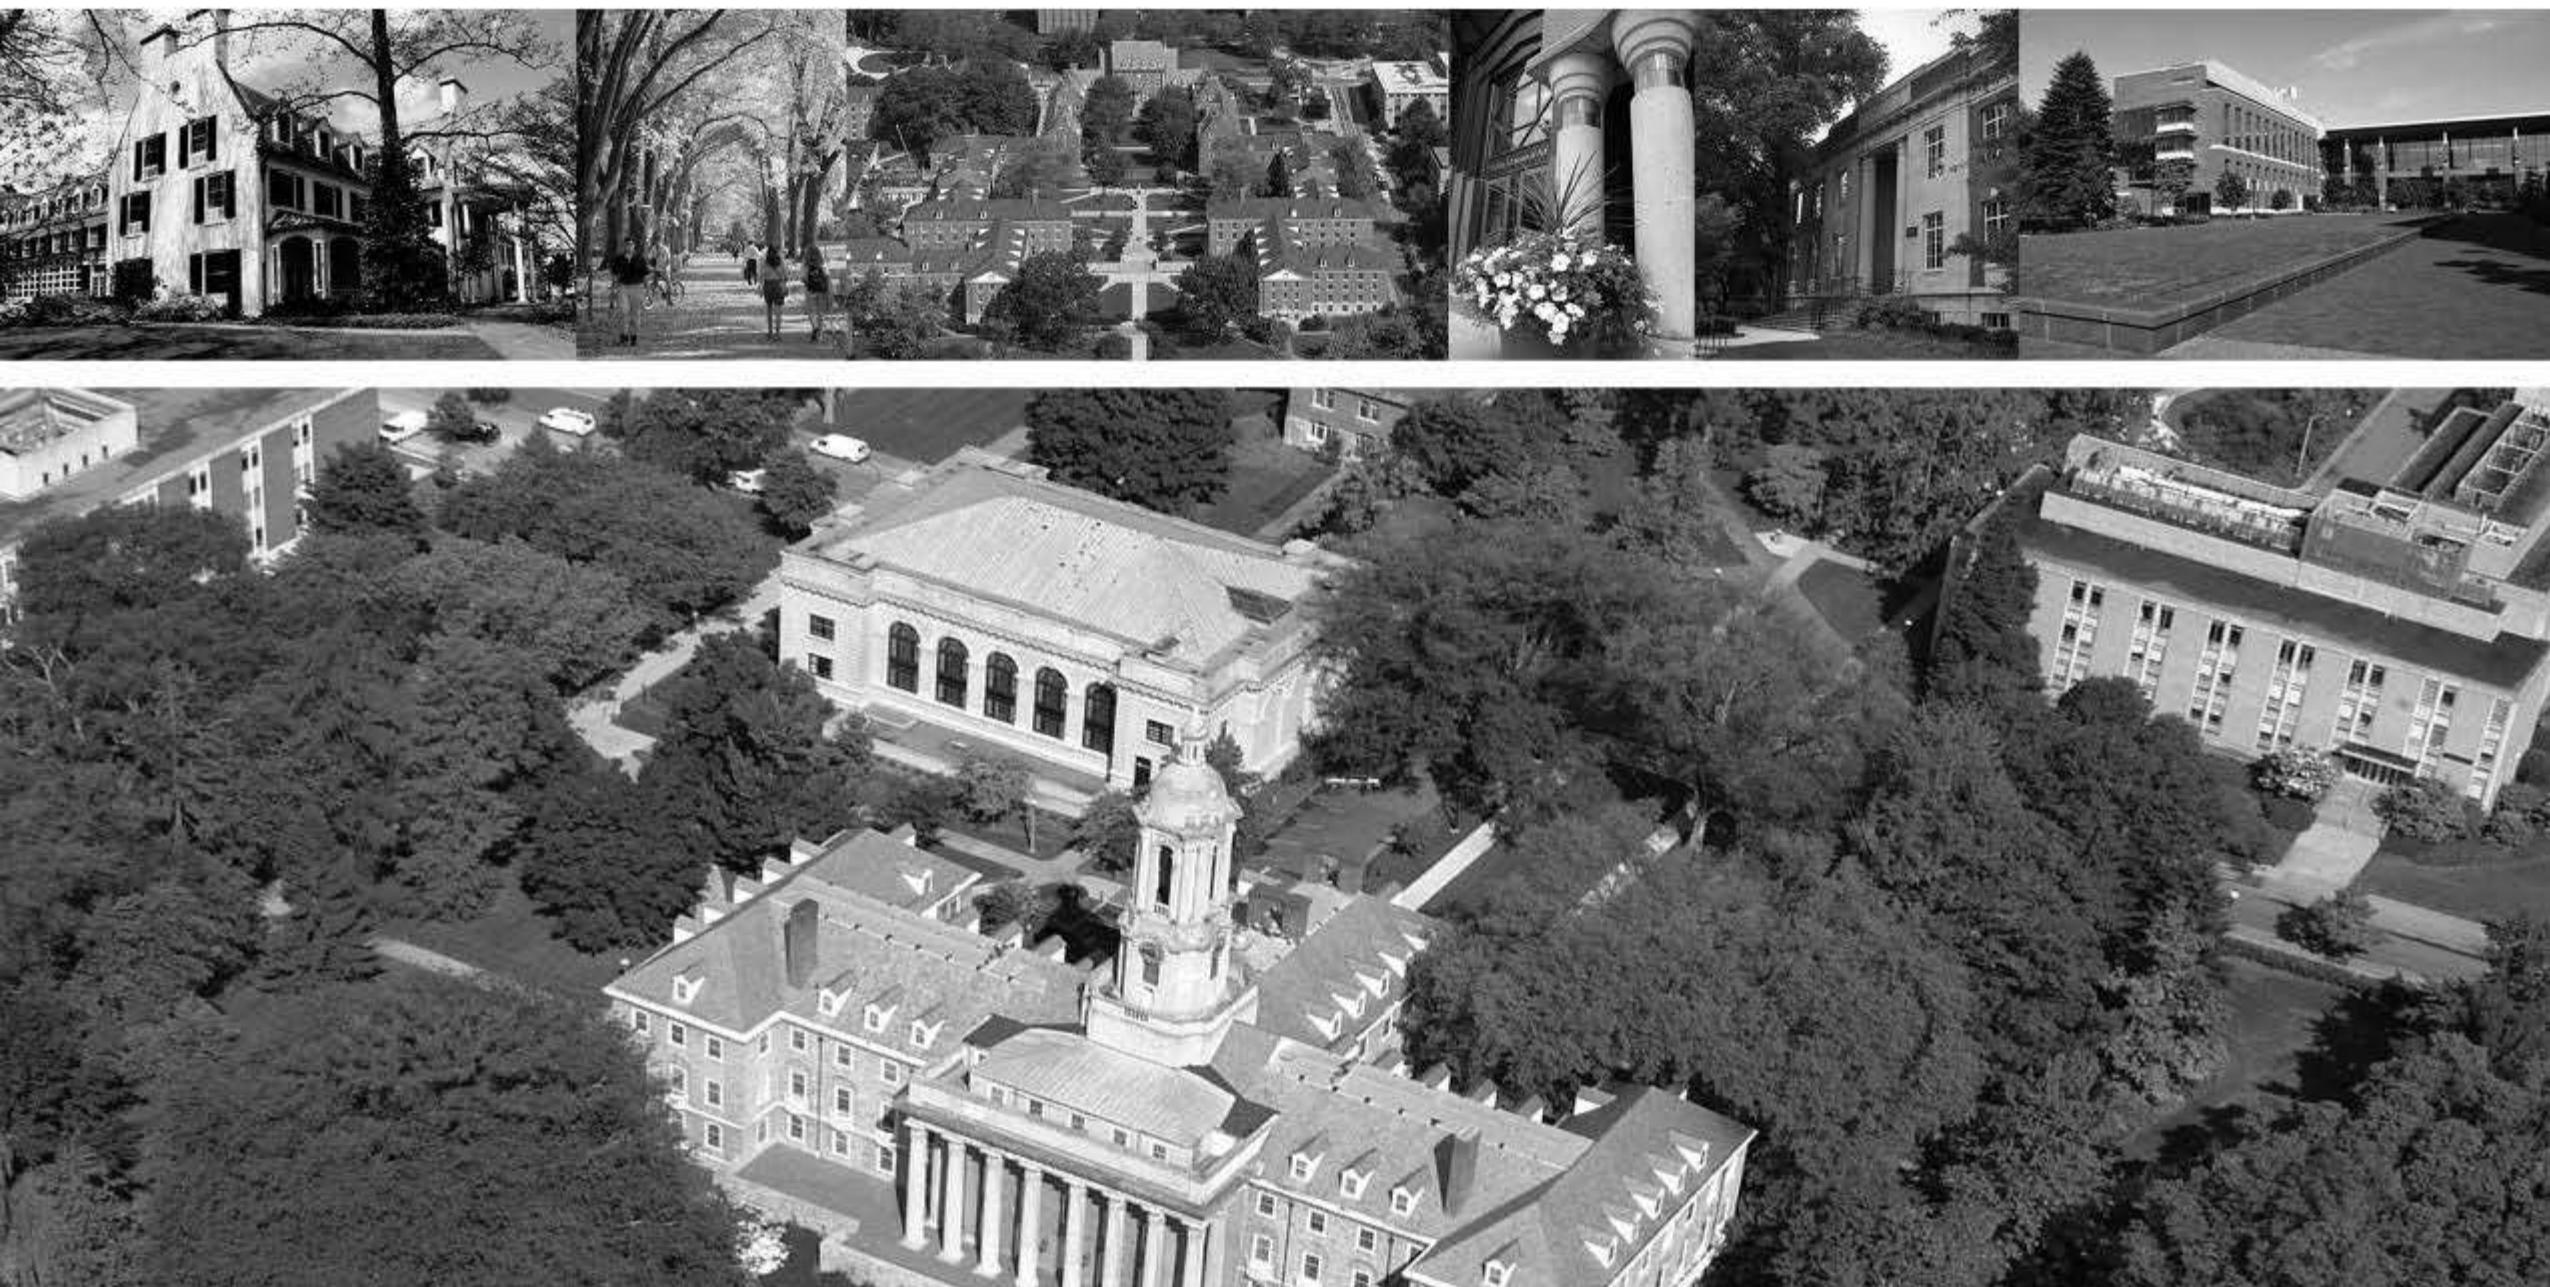

In a book titled "Ivy League Programs at State School Prices," Penn State is described as one of six public institutions that offers superior educational opportunities comparable to their Ivy League counterparts, but at a lower cost.

Nestled in the Nittany Valley, the Penn State campus has a charm that easily is identified. The CBS Television show "60 Minutes" once described Penn State as the ideal setting for any Hollywood director doing a film on college life.

Penn State was chartered in 1855 when a faculty of four taught its first students, 11 of whom graduated on 1861. Classes were held in Old Main, which also served as a dormitory. A rebuilt Old Main now is the site of the offices of the University administration, including Dr. Graham Spanier, who became Penn State's 16th president in 1995.

While Old Main once was all that existed of Penn State, today it sits in the middle of 15,984 acres that make up the University Park campus. Five-hundred-and-forty acres, which includes more than 12,000 trees, are devoted to classrooms and office buildings, residence halls and laboratories, with more than 750 buildings comprising the main campus.

From Old Main to Mount Nittany...from Pattee Library to the Creamery...from the new Business and Information Sciences and Technology buildings, the Palmer Museum of Art or the Bryce Jordan Center, Penn State's campus has a picture postcard look.

State College ranked 19th on Kiplinger's Personal Finance Magazine's 2006 list of "50 Smart Places to Live," ranking it among the most fun, vibrant and affordable cities in the nation.

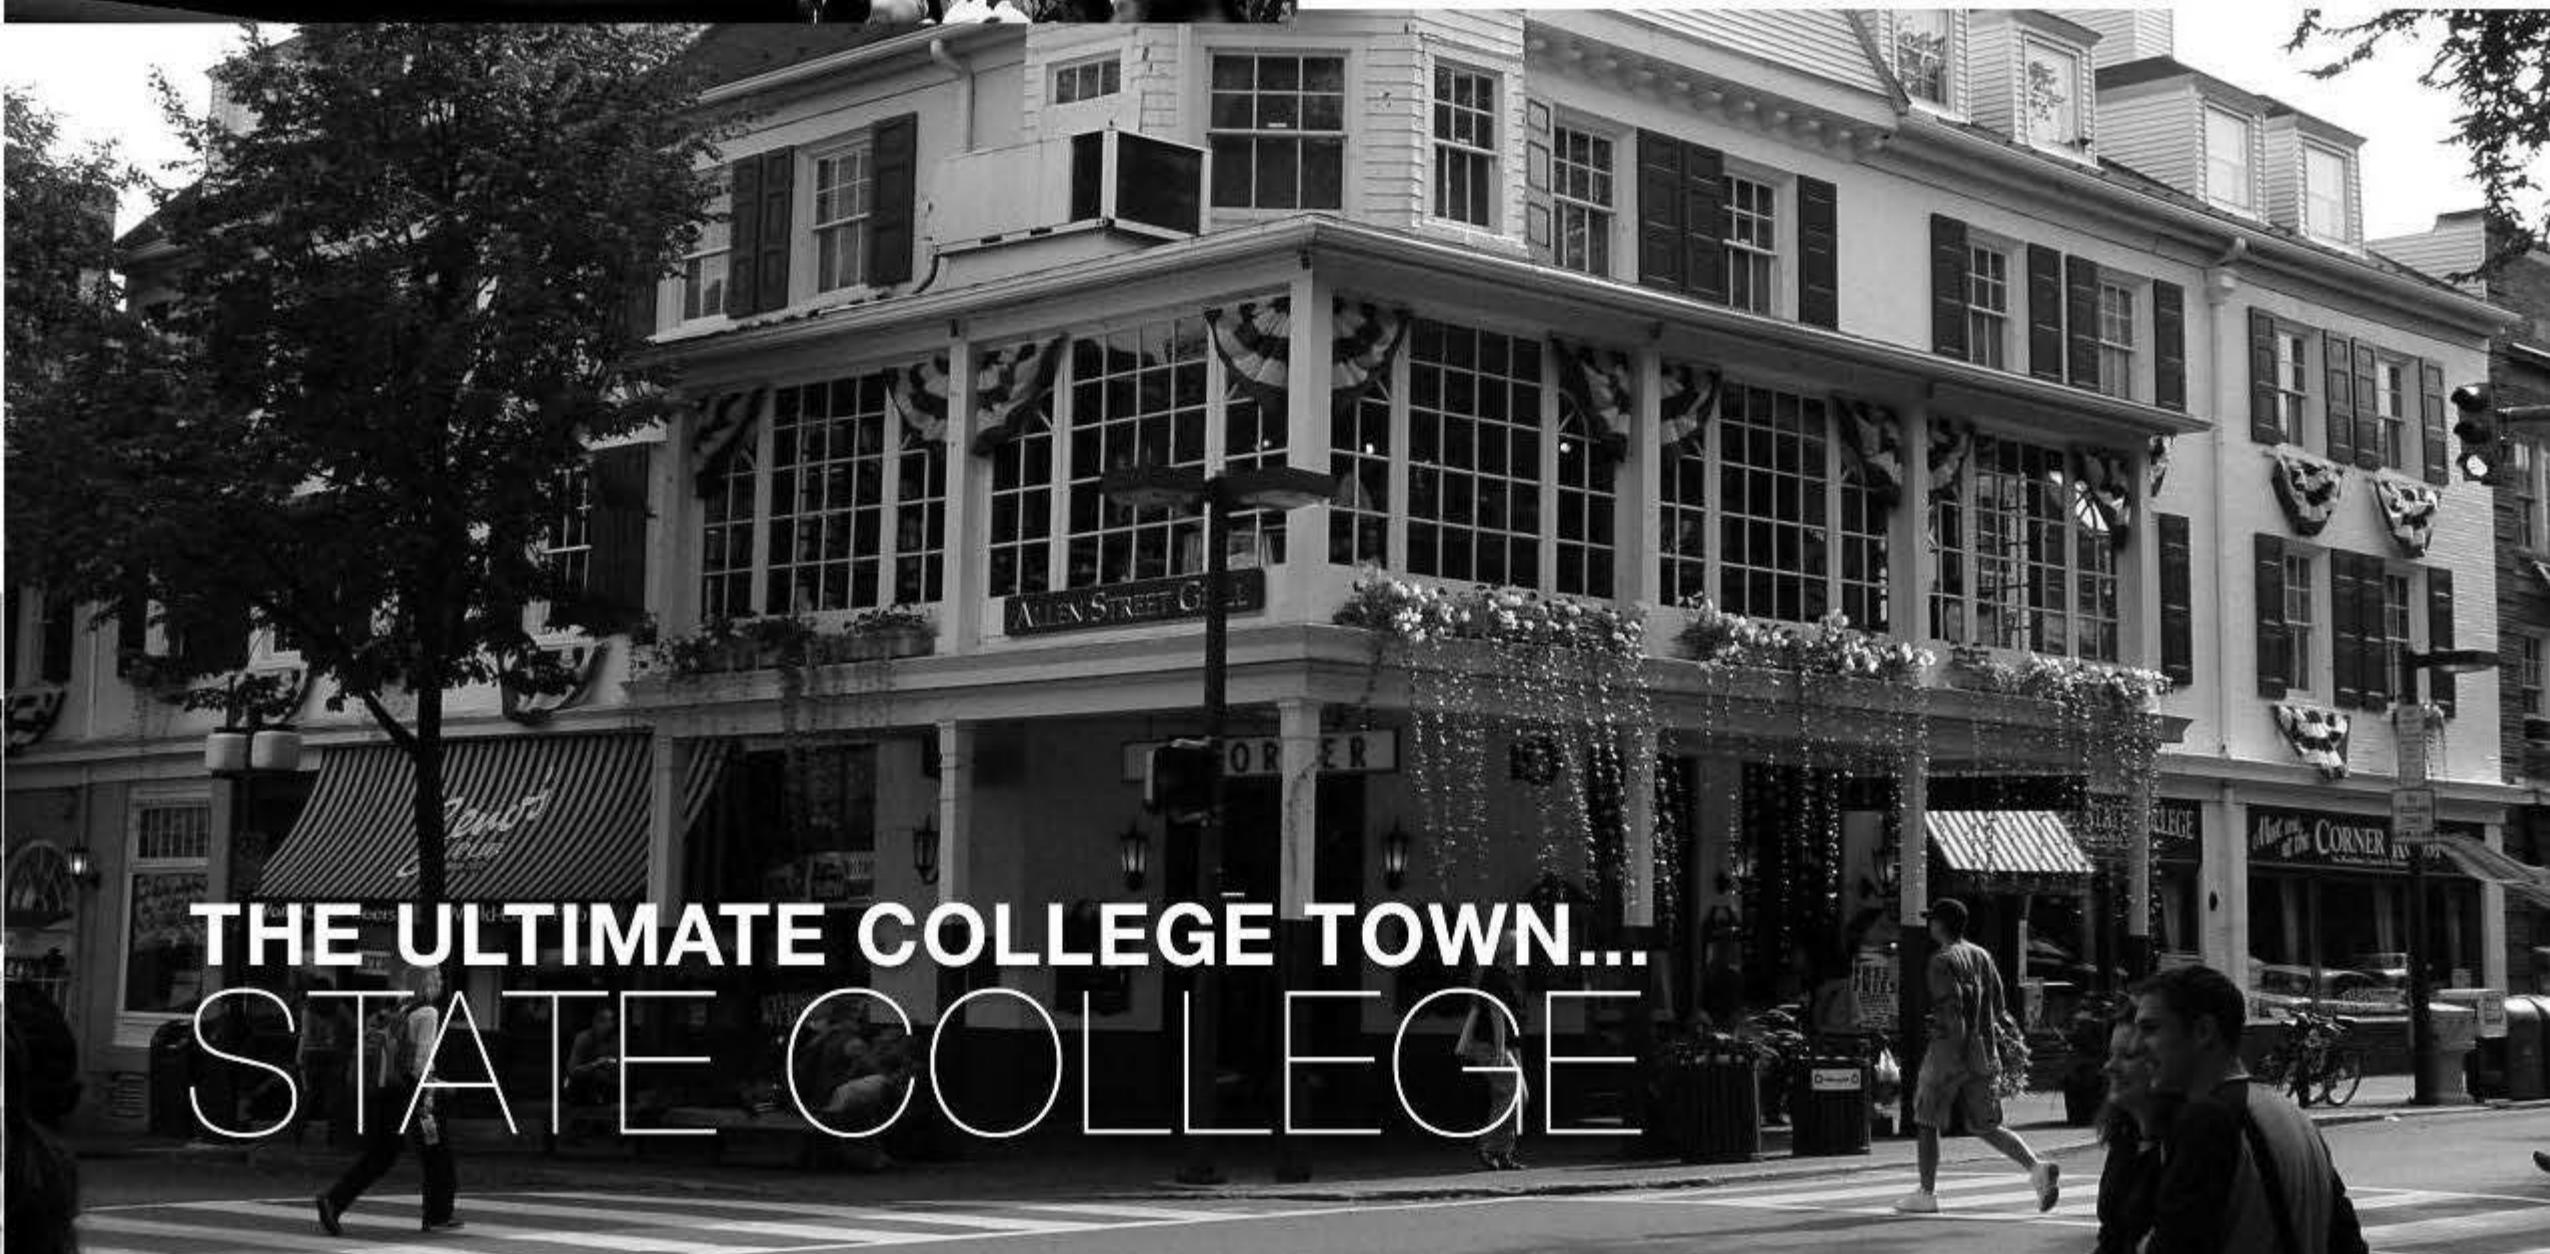

Penn State is situated in the middle of State College...the classic "college town." Located in the Nittany Valley in the center of Pennsylvania, State College is renowned for its beauty, charm and youthful lifestyle.

Trees and greenery envelope the stately fraternity houses along "Fraternity Row" and the surrounding residential areas. Quaint shops and popular restaurants and taverns share the cozy downtown area with students' favorite fast food shops, contemporary clothing stores and gathering spots.

And it all lies in the shadow of the legendary Mt. Nittany in what is affectionately known as "Happy Valley."

State College is conveniently located in the heart of the nation's mid-Atlantic region. It is less than a four-hour drive to New York City, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Baltimore and Washington D.C. However, State College provides a great variety of entertainment itself with rock concerts at the Bryce Jordan Center, skiing, fishing, The Central Pennsylvania Festival of the Arts, numerous student organized events and much more.

With a total full-time work force of more than 11,000 faculty, staff, and support personnel, Penn State is Centre County's largest employer. The Centre Region – State College and adjacent townships – has approximately 120,000 inhabitants, including Penn State students.

THE ULTIMATE COLLEGE TOWN...
STATE COLLEGE

FANTASTIC FACILITIES

To support its broad-based program, Penn State has athletic facilities the equal of any school in the country.

On the east side of campus lies perhaps the most recognizable of the athletic venues – 107,282-seat Beaver Stadium and the 15,300-seat Bryce Jordan Center, which opened in 1996. The $55 million academic/athletic convocation and events center is the home for the Nittany Lion and Lady Lion basketball teams. Penn State's gymnastics, volleyball and wrestling teams compete in the newly refurbished, 6,846-seat Rec Hall.

Other athletic facilities include newly refurbished Jeffrey Field, the home for soccer and lacrosse, with its stadium seating for 5,000 fans and adjacent state of the art soccer practice fields completed in 2008; Medlar Field at Lubrano Park, a magnificent 5,400-seat baseball facility located adjacent to Beaver Stadium which has served as the home of Penn State baseball since 2006; Nittany Lion Track; the $16 million Indoor Multi-Sport facility which houses a state of the art track among the best in the world and a turf practice field; the $2.1 million Sarni Tennis Center as well as an indoor tennis facility; the Bigler Athletic Complex and the Ernest B. McCoy Natatorium with an adjoining outdoor pool; two 18-hole University golf courses and softball fields.

Penn State tagged $176 million for the construction and renovation of a number of facilities, many of which have recently been completed. Among those still on the docket are a new softball complex and golf team club house slated for completion in the next two years.

$176 million committed to new construction and facility enhancement is taking Penn State Athletics into the new century.

NATIONALLY RESPECTED UNIVERSITY

- A school record 11 Nittany Lion student-athletes earned ESPN The Magazine Academic All-America® honors in 2008-09, including six first team honorees. - Ninety-six percent of Penn State student-athletes in NCAA studies from 1992-93 to 2001-02 who exhausted their eligibility earned their diplomas.

- Penn State was one of only 10 NCAA Division I-A institutions to be selected for U.S. News & World Report's College Sports Honor Roll for athletic and academic achievement.

- Penn State tied for first as the nation's best public institution according to a U.S. News & World Report survey of high school students (2004).

THE BIG TEN

BIG LIFE. BIG STAGE. BIG TEN.

The Big Ten Conference is a union of 11 world-class academic institutions who share a common mission of research, graduate, professional and undergraduate teaching and public service. The conference's 100-plus years of history, strong tradition of competitive intercollegiate athletic programs, vast and passionate alumni base, and consistent leadership in innovations position the Big Ten and its entire community firmly on the Big Stage.

The Big Ten has sustained a comprehensive set of shared practices and policies that enforce the priority of academics and emphasize the values of integrity, fairness and competitiveness in all aspects of its student-athletes' lives, with the ultimate goal of ensuring that each individual has the opportunity to live a Big Life.

STUDENT-ATHLETE OPPORTUNITIES

- Big Ten universities provide approximately $100 million in direct financial aid to more than 8,500 men and women student-athletes who compete for 25 championships, 12 for men and 13 for women.
- Conference institutions sponsor broad-based athletic programs with more than 270 teams. Other than the Ivy League, the Big Ten has the most broad-based athletic programs in the United States.

TOP ACADEMIC INSTITUTIONS

- Big Ten universities are members of the nation's only conference whose constituency is entirely composed of institutions that are members of the AAU, a prestigious association of major academic and research institutions in the United States and Canada.

MORE TELEVISION EXPOSURE

- The Big Ten's media agreements with CBS Sports, ABC/ESPN, the Big Ten Network and CBS College Sports Network provide the conference with its greatest television exposure ever.
- In 2006, the Big Ten created the first national conference-owned television network devoted to the athletic and academic programs of a single conference. The Big Ten Network launched on Aug. 30, 2007, and became the first new network in cable or satellite television history to reach 30 million homes in its first 30 days. The Big Ten Network is now available to more than 70 million homes nationally through agreements with more than 250 cable/satellite affiliates and appears in 23 of the top 25 national media markets.
- Since the current media agreements began in 2007-08, every home football and men's basketball game has been produced while women's basketball has received more coverage than any other conference.
- The Big Ten's new media agreements have resulted in the broadcast of more than 500 events nationally and regionally on an annual basis, compared to 300 events in the final year of the previous agreements.

CONFERENCE

NATION'S BEST FANS

- Big Ten fans are some of the nation's most supportive, with more than 8.7 million patrons attending conference home contests during the 2008-09 seasons for football, men's and women's basketball and volleyball alone.
- Over the last 31 seasons, the conference has ranked either No. 1 or No. 2 nationally in football, men's basketball and wrestling attendance. For the past 17 seasons, women's basketball has been ranked either No. 1 or No. 2 nationally in attendance.
- Big Ten institutions have more than 4.2 million living alumni and over 300,000 undergraduate students attending their universities.

SUCCESSFUL PROGRAMS

- During the 2008-09 season, the Big Ten claimed five team national championships, including titles for Iowa wrestling, Penn State fencing and women's volleyball, Northwestern lacrosse and Wisconsin women's ice hockey. In addition, Big Ten teams finished as the national runners-up in men's basketball and men's gymnastics.
- Big Ten teams have claimed at least three national titles in nine of the last 10 seasons (1999-2000 through 2008-09). Over the last decade, the Big Ten has produced team national crowns in the sports of basketball, cross country, fencing, field hockey, football, golf, gymnastics, ice hockey, lacrosse, soccer, softball, synchronized swimming, tennis, track and field, volleyball and wrestling.

LEADERSHIP IN GENDER EQUITY

- Since 1992, the Big Ten has shown a strong commitment to increasing opportunities for women in sports and exposure of women's athletics by establishing a multi-phased gender equity program. In that time, the Big Ten has created in excess of 2,000 new opportunities for women student-athletes and established 28 new women's teams, while expanding the number of women's championships to 13 by adding field hockey, soccer and rowing.
- As part of the gender equity action plan, the Big Ten was the first conference to voluntarily adopt male/female participation goals for student-athletes in 1992. The Big Ten initiated a five-year plan for conference members to commit to a 60 percent/40 percent male-to-female student-athlete participation ratio. This was achieved as a conference by 1997 and 2000 was the first year that all institutions individually met this goal. As part of its commitment to gender equity, the Council of Presidents/Chancellors annually monitors this policy. During the 2007-08 year, all institutions were in compliance and the conference averaged a 52/48 male-to-female participation ratio.

BUILDING THE FUTURE

- In 1989, the Big Ten created a community outreach program—SCORE (Success Comes Out of Reading Everyday), which partners the conference with two Chicago elementary schools to improve reading performances. What began with one school, two grade levels and five classrooms has grown in its 20th year to include grades kindergarten through eighth, encompassing all classes and students at Melody School and Louis Armstrong School.

• Following the national tragedy on Sept. 11, 2001, the Big Ten, through its intercollegiate athletic department revenues, pledged a $1 million scholarship contribution to assist the families of those affected by the terrorist attacks. The conference's donation is called the "Big Ten 9-11 Scholarship Fund", and the $1 million contribution will be drawn from conference reserves which are generated as a result of football and men's basketball participation in NCAA, bowl and regular-season television opportunities.

• The Big Ten has established numerous community programs surrounding the Big Ten Men's and Women's Basketball Tournaments, including the Wayne Duke Postgraduate Award Scholarship, the Big Ten Career Fair, the Hoops Day 5K and a partnership with the Pink Ribbon Connection, a local breast cancer organization.

SEASON PREVIEW

Last season concluded with a come-from-behind victory over #21 Minnesota to spoil the Golden Gophers' chances of winning the Big Ten Regular Season Title. A strong start included winning 21 of their first 35 games with two wins over perennial power Michigan and another over eventual regular season champion Ohio State. Though the year didn't finish as the Nittany Lions would have liked, there were a number of positives which makes 2010 a highly-anticipated campaign.

Led by All-Conference performers Ryan Ignas and Jordan Steranka, a young squad has its goals set high. Should they finish in the top six in the conference, the Nittany Lions would make the Big Ten Tournament for the third time in four years. The last time it happened was from 2000-2004 when they qualified four times in a five-year span.

Make the Big Ten Tournament and anything can happen - just ask the 2000 team that reached the conference championship. Despite succumbing in the finals, it was awarded an at-large berth into the NCAA Tournament and advanced all the way to the Super Regionals. As we look back at the first decade of the 21st century, the Nittany Lions hope they can ring in the next 10 years as they did the first.

CATCHER

One of the most experienced positions of a young squad is catcher, where juniors Ben Heath and Bobby Jacobs lead a talented quartet. The classmates split time last season, starting all but one game behind the plate. Jacobs finished the year hitting .298 with two home runs and 18 RBI, while Heath batted .289 with three long balls and 20 driven in.

Head coach and former Major League catcher Robbie Wine knows that Heath has the intangibles that can make a catcher special.

"We're expecting a good year out of Ben," said Wine. "The experience he got last year was beneficial. He had a great fall and his leadership really seems to be coming to the forefront."

Arguably more important than a catcher's hitting is his work with the pitchers, which pitching coach Jason Bell is well aware of.

"Ben brings that stability because he's been back there and he knows everyone pretty well," he said. "Bobby is a little bit behind right now just for the fact that he missed the fall. When he gets back catching everybody on a regular basis, guys will feel comfortable with him as well."

Behind Heath and Jacobs are junior transfer Mario Eramo and sophomore Ryan Clark. Both have the versatility to play multiple positions, allowing them to see additional time when not catching. Eramo comes to Penn State from Blinn Junior College with a power bat from the left side. He is expected to have multiple roles ranging from DH to even a late-game pinch hitter.

On the other end of the spectrum is Clark, who has continued to improve after seeing limited action as a freshman. He moved to the outfield in the fall, but still has the ability to get behind the plate if needed.

Depth at the catcher position is something that the coaching staff hopes to use to its advantage. Each player brings his own skill to the table, combining to form a hybrid of speed, power, average and most importantly, the intangibles that can turn a good catcher into a great catcher.

FIRST BASE

Despite losing Cory Wine, the program's all-time leader in a number of statistical categories, the Nittany Lions think they have a more than adequate replacement who is ready to step in. Sophomore Joey DeBernardis looks to be the frontrunner and is someone who, as Robbie Wine said, "has a chance to be a special player."

DeBernardis' talent is well-known, as the Florida Marlins selected him in the 2008 Major League Baseball Entry Draft. He played in 13 games as a freshman, starting four, while posting a .280 average with a home run and two RBI. Robbie is very excited about his upside.

"He will hit and play really good defense," said Wine. "I'm excited about him. We threw him in some games last year, but he didn't get to play [consistently]."

In the mix for key playing time at first is redshirt junior Jack Greenberg, who is back and ready to go after redshirting last season. The native of Upper St. Clair hit .300 in limited action in his inaugural Penn State season in 2008.

Other first base options are senior Gordon Atkisson and freshman Jose Texidor. Atkisson joined the squad after serving as team manager the past two years, while Texidor is one of three current players who attended State College High School.

SECOND BASE

With Landon Nakata's career coming to an end, senior Louie Picconi is able to slide to his natural position of second base. Along with a sensational glove and solid bat, Picconi is the sparkplug and leader of the infield.

"He's at his position now," said Wine. "I think he's an All-Conference candidate if he hits. He will be solid with the glove and make the plays."

Signs are certainly pointing toward a breakout offensive season. Not only has he consistently been steady with the glove (career .954 fielding percentage), but his average has continued to climb as well. After hitting .238 as a freshman, he posted a .248 average as a sophomore and .257 as a junior.

Another player who has progressed nicely is redshirt freshman Elliot Searer, who had a good fall season. He could see time in the infield with continued improvement.

SHORTSTOP

Shortstop features a number of intriguing possibilities, led by junior Michael Glantz, who is competing with freshman Luis Montesinos for the starting job. Following an up-and-down first year as a Nittany Lion, Wine is confident that he will bounce back in his second season of Division I action. Glantz did have numerous bright spots in 2009, finishing with one home run and 11 RBI, including six multiple-hit games.

"He's back, he's working hard and he looks good," said Wine.

Alongside Glantz is Montesinos, a viable option who is expected to be eased into the college game.

"We'll be able to throw him in some midweek and weekend games to get him some experience," said Wine. "In the event we need him somewhere down the line, he'll be there for us. We really like where he is and what he's doing."

Glantz and Montesinos are versatile as well, which could allow them to shift to second or third base if needed.

THIRD BASE

Third will undoubtedly be one of Penn State's biggest positions of strength for years to come as Steranka returns following a sensational freshman campaign. He made his mark on the college baseball scene in 2009, winning Penn State's "triple crown" by leading the squad in average (.365), home runs (6) and RBI (42). His performance didn't go unnoticed; he was recognized by the Big Ten as a Third Team All-Conference performer. The All-America candidate was also strong in the field, making only six errors at the "hot corner." Opposing pitchers will be ready to face Steranka this year, which will mark the biggest difference between his freshman and sophomore seasons. He hit in the middle of the lineup last year and is expected to continue in a similar batting position this season.

"How Jordan handles being one of 'the guys' now is the key and we have 100 percent confidence he will," said Wine. "He will be the target people look out for. It will be up to the other guys in the lineup to pick up the slack if they decide to pitch around him."

Another possibility at third includes Greenberg, who is also one of the Lions' top backups at first base.

OUTFIELD

The outfield features intriguing possibilities with a number of interchangeable pieces. Lynd, who was second on the Lions with a .356 average last season, will redshirt in 2010 due to injury. That sets the stage for junior transfer Heath Johnson, sophomores Clark and Sean Deegan and freshman Steve Snyder, who appear to have the leg up for playing time.

Left and center field will likely feature a young combination of Clark, Deegan and Deegan to fill those two slots. In addition, the third could DH when not playing the field.

Clark moved to outfield from catcher, while Deegan saw limited action as a freshman, backing up talented seniors Ryan Boonie, Mike Deese and Rick Marlin.

With Lynd's injury, Snyder is also deep into the outfield mix. The native of West Chester, Pa. impressed during the fall and has a similar skillset to Lynd, highlighted by his speed.

Johnson, a junior college All-American should receive considerable time in right field, but Clark or Deegan could also slide over if needed. Johnson comes to Happy Valley from Frank Phillips College in Texas. He is a prototypical two-hole type hitter with strong gap-to-gap power.

Another outfielder is State College native and redshirt sophomore Drew Yukelson, who sports a 1.000 career batting average. He redshirted last season after getting a hit in both at-bats in 2008.

The one common denominator from the outfield is speed, a great asset in covering the large confines of Medlar Field at Lubrano Park. Along with speed come stolen bases, a department which Snyder could impress. He has big shoes to fill to make up for the loss of Lynd, who finished last season with 22 thefts, which was third in the Big Ten and fourth in Penn State single-season history.

STARTING PITCHING

Despite losing three key starters to graduation (Scott Kelley, Mike Lorentson, T.J. Macy), the Nittany Lions return a strong mix of veterans and youngsters to give the rotation great upside.

Spearheading the group is redshirt senior Mike Wanamaker, who missed the entire 2009 season due to injury. The coaching staff loves his makeup.

"Mike has that bulldog mentality [and is] a guy you want on the mound," said Bell. "[He is] the type of guy you have to go out and pry the ball from. He wants the ball in every game."

"Wanamaker is a horse and a competitor, which is what we're all about," said Wine.

Someone who looks to take the next step is junior left-hander Calvin Grumley. He showed spurts of brilliance as a sophomore which included three quality starts, against Rutgers (7.0 IP, 8 H, 3 ER), New York Tech (6.0 IP, 2 H, 0 ER) and Michigan (6.0 IP, 8 H, 3 ER). With added consistency, he could develop into one of the team's top and most relied upon starters.

"Look for Calvin to come out, have improved command and take a little bit of a leadership role with the starters," said Bell. "At times, he's his own worst enemy. When he's on, he has a chance to be pretty good."

Returning All-Conference performer Ignas could contribute as a starter or out of the bullpen. He was impressive as a freshman in leading the Nittany

Lions in both wins (5) and saves (5), one of only 10 pitchers in the nation to accomplish that feat. Along with starting two games, he also served as the closer and a middle reliever.

"It will be nice to finally get Ryan into a role and let him stay there," said Bell. "He's someone who could be a conference starter or a key member of the bullpen. He gives us a lot of flexibility."

A couple of other starting options are freshmen Neal Herring and John Walter. They both have live arms and will be in the mix for innings. Whether as a starter or reliever, they will get their share of work by the end of the year.

"Walter and Herring are both talented freshmen," said Bell. "Both of them have good arms and have a chance to be impact guys. We want to put them in situations to have a lot of success, then throw them into the fire a little more as the season goes along."

Sophomore Mike Franklin and freshman Erik Rumberger could also start at some point. Franklin started twice last season, including one gem against La Salle when he tossed five hitless innings for his first career win.

BULLPEN

Enter the bullpen and you find a good mix of freshmen phenoms and senior stars. Leading the group is co-captain David Lutz, who led the Lions in ERA last season (3.38). The redshirt senior finished with a 4-2 record and three saves, filling every role from lefty specialist to closer.

"Lutz anchors the bullpen for us," said Bell. "He's shown the ability to come in and get out left-handers and right-handers and have success in many roles. You know what you're getting every time he's out there. He brings that intensity every time."

"Jesse is probably the right-handed version of Dave," he said. "He can go out there and give you quality innings. He's intense; he gets after it. Both he and Lutz are pretty good athletes, which means a lot."

The closer position is up in the air - a number of pitchers could emerge. One option is Lutz, while Ignas and Walter could also fill the role.

Additional pitchers who could see time are: sophomore Drew Irsfeld, senior Drew Palen and junior Mike Pierce. Franklin, Herring and Rumberger could also pitch out of the bullpen if they're not starting.

SCHEDULE

The 2010 schedule includes five games against '09 NCAA Tournament teams, highlighted by a showdown at perennial power Texas A&M. Wine, who enters his sixth season as head coach, leads his squad against 12 different conferences and two independents. The Lions will play 22 home games at Medlar Field at Lubrano Park including clashes against conference foes Northwestern, Michigan State, Iowa and Michigan.

Along with their usual Big Ten games, the Nittany Lions are set to face teams from the BIG EAST, Big 12, MEAC, Southland Conference, Mid-American Conference, Ivy League, Big South, CAA, Patriot League, Atlantic 10 and NEC. An impressive 13 opponents finished 2009 with a winning record, including eight with at least 35 wins and four that surpassed 40.

"I am very pleased with the balance of our schedule," said Wine. "Our strong nonconference opponents should help us prepare for an always challenging Big Ten slate."

Highlighting the schedule are games against NCAA squads Texas A&M, Texas State, Kent State, Minnesota and Ohio State, among many strong foes.

The Big Ten Tournament is set for May 26-29 in Columbus, Ohio. After failing to qualify last season, Penn State looks to make it back to the conference tournament for the third time in the last four seasons in search of its first Big Ten Tournament Title in program history.

HEAD COACH ROBBIE WINE

Head Coach

#77

Robbie WINE

Sixth Year
Oklahoma State, 2002

In just five years at the helm of the Penn State baseball program, head coach Robbie Wine has anchored the Nittany Lions into being one of the most consistent teams in the Big Ten. Wine, the school's 13th coach of all-time, has turned the school's first intercollegiate athletic squad into one that continues to reach new heights. The Lions have been deemed as one of the most progressive teams in the nation by various college baseball media.

In 2008, Wine became the first coach in school history to produce back-to-back top three finishes in the Big Ten. After a slow start to the season, the squad staged a dramatic rally to shut out Indiana and Iowa en route to 17 conference wins and the third seed in the proceeding tournament. From 2007-08, the Nittany Lions maintained a .600 winning percentage against Big Ten opposition.

Penn State followed those efforts with 25 more wins last year. It was the third straight season of at least 25 victories, one of only four Big Ten squads to do so. After a hot start, the Nittany Lions struggled down the stretch, but a number of bright spots included a win against 21st-ranked Minnesota in the season finale which prevented the Golden Gophers from winning the Big Ten Regular Season Championship. Penn State also defeated eventual NCAA Tournament participants Indiana and Ohio State and took two-of-three from perennial power Michigan.

Wine has helped make Medlar Field at Lubrano Park one of the best atmospheres in college baseball. The squad drew over 1,000 fans for almost half of its games (10) while drawing over 2,000 two times and 3,000 on one occasion. The Lions have impressed on the field as well, highlighted by a 15-9 home mark in 2008. The Nittany Lions drew four crowds of over 2,000 that year to place 42nd nationally (for the second straight season) in average attendance, beating the ranks of some of college baseball's top programs such as Vanderbilt and Arizona. In only three seasons, Penn State baseball has made Medlar Field at Lubrano Park "one of college baseball's best stadiums."

Known and respected throughout both professional and collegiate baseball circles, Wine has used his connections to expand Penn State's recruiting reach. Traditionally known as a regional program, Wine has gradually made Penn State baseball into a nationally-known name. Penn State will enter this season with players from 12 different states: Arizona, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania and Texas. Last year's squad also had players from Hawai'i, Idaho, Oklahoma and South Carolina. Next year's incoming class includes two from the state of Massachusetts.

Wine has recruited some of the best national talent while signing the top in-state talent as well. The 2010 roster includes an incredible 16 players from the Keystone State, three from State College.

Not only are some of the best prep and junior college talents signing with Penn State, but they are also performing once here. Two of Wine's players (pitcher Scott Kelley and first baseman Cory Wine) were selected in last June's Major League Baseball Draft. Penn State has seen nine players selected from 2007-09, third most in the Big Ten in that span. In 2008, pitcher Drew O'Neil was selected in the fourth round by the Chicago White Sox, becoming the highest Penn State draftee since Nate Bump went in the first round in 1998. He also marked just the second Penn Stater to be drafted in the top 10 rounds in the past 31 years. Before O'Neil's selection, five players were selected in the 2007 draft, three coming in the first 14 rounds.

Wine has 26 years of playing and coaching experience at the college and professional levels. Prior to his first head coaching position, he was an assistant coach in charge of hitting and defense at his alma mater, Oklahoma State. During his tenure, the Cowboys won a Big 12 Tournament championship (2004), qualified for five NCAA Regionals, one Super Regional and a College World Series (1999). He also oversaw talent evaluation, recruiting and office administration. Scott Baker, Josh Fields, Scott Richmond and Luke Scott are among the various Major Leaguers coming from Oklahoma State during Wine's tenure.

Strong offenses have been known to follow Wine wherever he coaches. In his first season as head coach in 2005, the Nittany Lions hit nearly 50 points higher (.302 vs. .255) than they had in 2004. Five different Penn State players hit over .300 to account for the incredible improvement. The Nittany Lions also had 73 more RBI (286-213), 92 more hits (546-454) and 81 more runs (318-237).

They followed the improvement with another strong season in 2006, batting .289 as a team with four different players hitting over .300 while five had slugging percentages of .400 or greater.

After four players hit .300 or better in 2007, three did so in '08, led by Brian Ernst's team-leading .358 average. Four starters had on-base percentages of over .400 as Penn State drew 249 walks, 55 more than its opponents. The team mirrored the four-year average batting average (.292) under Wine, while improving to .294 in 2009. Four players finished with a .300 average or better, led by two newcomers, Jordan Steranka (.365) and Blake Lynd (.356). Three others were within five points of cracking the .300 plateau: Ryan Boonie (.298), Bobby Jacobs (.298) and Rick Marlin (.295).

In Wine's final year at Oklahoma State, the Cowboy offense hit .312 and smashed 48 home runs en route to a 38-24 record and its first Big 12 championship since the beginning of the Big 12 nearly a decade earlier. A year earlier, the offense led the conference in home runs with 77 while in 2000, the Cowboys were in the top three in the league in virtually every offensive category.

Wine led the 1999 Oklahoma State squad to the most runs scored (696) and third-most runs per game (10.39) en route to the College World Series. It also finished third nationally with 132 home runs and a .587 slugging percentage. That was an improvement from an already stellar offense in 1998 that finished 10th in the country with 9.52 runs per game. In his first year as assistant coach the previous season, the Cowboys hit .333 as a team and tied for first nationally

Prior to returning to where it all began, Wine spent 15 years in the professional baseball ranks, eight as a player and six as a coach. He was the eighth overall selection of the 1983 Major League Baseball Amateur Draft, the second-highest pick in Oklahoma State history. Wine worked his way to the Major League level where he played for the Houston Astros for parts of the 1986 and 1987 seasons. After his playing days, he spent 1991 as a hitting, third base and defensive coach for the Miami Miracle of the Single-A Florida State League. He then worked for the Milwaukee Brewers from 1993-96 as part of their big league coaching staff and then as a roving catching instructor.

Wine was a two-time All-America catcher during his playing days at Oklahoma State. Playing for the legendary coach Gary Ward, Wine's teams made three College World Series appearances, including a second-place finish in 1981. He was inducted into the Oklahoma State Hall of Fame in 1993.

"He's had great relationships with his student-athletes," said Frank Anderson, Wine's former boss at Oklahoma State. "It's an outstanding opportunity for both him and the school. It's a positive move for Penn State."

and for Robbie. Not only is he a good coach, but he's a good person and part of a great family."

Wine brings a unique perspective as a former Major League Baseball player; he is currently one of just 13 NCAA Division I coaches out of nearly 300 programs that has played in the big leagues.

Born July 13, 1962 in Philadelphia, Robbie is the son of former Philadelphia Phillies shortstop Bobby Wine, who has spent over 40 years in professional baseball and is currently an advanced scout for the Atlanta Braves. Robbie graduated from Methacton High School in Fairview Village, Pa. and went back to school while coaching at Oklahoma State to earn his Bachelor's Degree in 2002.

Wine resides in Boalsburg with his wife Shealynn and son Cory (23) and daughter Mackenzie (19). Cory graduated from Penn State last year following a stellar four-year baseball career. He was selected by the Philadelphia Phillies in the 38th round of last June's Major League Draft and later played for the Gulf Coast League Phillies.

Wine was on numerous trading cards in his playing days.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING...

"The first thing I would say about Robbie is that he grew up in the baseball world. He has a wealth of knowledge and experience. His dad was a player and scout for many, many years, so Robbie's got a pedigree. Something needs to be said for that type of experience and background, which helps out."

"Interestingly enough, he was always sort of quiet, always one of the quietest in the room. You would have never known that his dad was a former player. He was always kind of reserved and had a lot of respect for the game."

-Phil Garner, 31 years of Major League experience (16 as a player & 15 as a manager), Played and coached with Wine

"Robbie Wine comes from a tremendous baseball background first and foremost, following his father who was an outstanding player and baseball mind. He learned at home, then having the opportunity to play at Oklahoma State under Gary Ward only maximized his potential in this game."

"I've witnessed first hand his ability to recruit, develop and compete with student-athletes at the highest level through our bedlam series (Oklahoma State vs. Oklahoma rivalry). Unfortunately for me, Robbie was standing on the other side of the field; we had tremendous battles. I know Penn State will thrive under his leadership."

-Sunny Golloway, Oklahoma Head Baseball Coach, Played and coached against Wine

"I have no problem saying that Coach Wine is the best baseball coach that I had during my playing career. Coach Wine has a unique ability that enables him to relate extremely well with players of all different personalities. Simply put, he's a player's coach. Coach Wine puts the interest of his players and the university in front of anything else. I have no doubt that he will continue to take our program to the next level. Coach Wine will continue to attract top student-athletes that have a love and passion for Penn State and I'm confident that he will be able to maximize their potential during their time at University Park."

-Michael Milliron, Penn State '05, Played under Wine at Penn State

"I have a ton of respect for Coach Wine. There's no one else in the game from my view that has brought more energy and passion and makes playing baseball fun. He made playing so enjoyable. He is very knowledgeable and has great insight from his playing career. I attribute a lot of my success to his tutelage."

-Billy Gasparino, Current Toronto Blue Jays scout, Played for Wine at Oklahoma State

"I have known Robbie Wine for the better part of 30 years. He was a great player at Oklahoma State when we had many competitive battles on the field against the Cowboys. We followed his professional career with great interest and had the wonderful experience of playing against him since he's been the head coach at Penn State. He is a fine example for young men everywhere and a great coach as well. We look forward to many more opportunities to compete against the Nittany Lions in the future."

-Gene Stephenson, Wichita State Head Baseball Coach

"Robbie Wine is one of the top coaches in our game. He runs his program in a first-class manner and his players are successful in the classroom and on the baseball field. I have no doubts that he will continue to build a quality program at Penn State and compete for Big Ten Championships!"

-Ritch Price, Kansas Head Baseball Coach

Jason
BELL
Sixth Year
Oklahoma State, 2003

Throughout his successful collegiate coaching career, Robbie Wine has relied on assistant coach Jason Bell to oversee his teams' pitching, both at Oklahoma State and now at Penn State. Wine and Bell, in their ninth season together, have produced a talented core of pitchers that are expected to shine in 2010.

Bell, who enters his sixth season in Happy Valley, has served as the team's pitching coach while also heavily involved in recruiting with fellow assistant coach Eric Folmar. Possessing an impressive list of credentials, the former second-round Major League Draft pick came to Penn State with Wine in the fall of 2004.

In his first five years with the Nittany Lions, Bell has overseen a dramatic improvement in the pitching staff. Last season saw a pair of relievers come into their own, led by David Lutz's team-leading 3.38 ERA. Two-sport athlete Jesse Alfreno also impressed in his first year on the squad, posting a 4.44 ERA with a stellar .226 opponent batting average. In addition, converted outfielder Scott Kelley was selected by the Kansas City Royals in the 23rd round of the Major League Baseball Amateur Draft.

The previous June, one of Bell's protégés became the program's top draft pick as Drew O'Neil was selected in the fourth round by the Chicago White Sox. O'Neil, a First Team All-Big Ten selection, tied his own Penn State single-season saves record with 11 while boasting a 1.88 ERA and allowing just four earned runs through the regular season.

Mike Wanamaker, who is set to return to the mound this year, made excellent gains throughout 2008, throwing four complete games - including one against Indiana in the Big Ten Tournament - and compiling a 3.41 ERA. Penn State allowed the fewest home runs (26) in the Big Ten that season.

In 2007, Penn State led the conference in ERA (4.05), fewest runs, fewest earned runs and fewest hits allowed to spearhead Penn State's 10.5 game improvement from '06. Penn State led Big Ten pitching by wide margins in conference play. The Nittany Lions' 3.41 overall team ERA was tops by a full 1.39 runs. The 112 runs and 89 earned runs allowed were also the fewest. In fact, Penn State was the only team to give up less than 100 earned runs in conference play (fewer than three earned runs per game). The Nittany Lion hurlers also allowed the second-fewest hits in the league and picked up 20 wins, also second-best. Four of Bell's pitchers were drafted come June: Gary Amato, Craig Clark, Scott Gaffney and Drew O'Neil. Amato, Clark and Gaffney all signed professional contracts while O'Neil, who set the school record for saves in a season and had a scoreless inning streak reach 20.1 innings, elected to return to school despite being an eighth round pick.

Penn State led the Big Ten in fewest walks with just 157 in 435 innings of work in 2006. Clark was tied for third in the Big Ten in fewest walks with just 14 in 91.2 innings, including a streak of 26.2 straight innings without a free pass. Overall, the pitching staff had a 2.22:1 strikeout to walk ratio and was second in the Big Ten in strikeouts through the end of the regular season before eventually finishing in a fifth-place tie with 349. Additionally, Alan Stidfole, signed a free agent contract with the Toronto Blue Jays.

In his first year as pitching coach in 2005, Bell guided the staff to five shutouts and better than a 2:1 strikeout to walk ratio. Two pitchers, Sean Stidfole and Josh Palm, were also drafted.

A co-worker of Wine's at Oklahoma State, Bell served as volunteer assistant coach in charge of pitching for three seasons. During his time with the Cowboys, he aided in the development of seven pitchers who were taken in the Major League Baseball Amateur Draft, including a second and fourth-rounder. The Cowboys also won the 2004 Big 12 Conference Championship. Some notable pitchers he coached at Oklahoma State include current big leaguers Scott Baker (Minnesota) and Scott Richmond (Toronto).

Like Wine, Bell has a wide variety of playing and coaching experience, both at the collegiate and professional ranks, that totals 18 years. Prior to his three-year stint as an assistant coach, he pitched in the minor leagues from 1995-2001. He was selected in the second round of the 1995 draft by the Minnesota Twins and played with the Low-A Fort Wayne Wizards, the High-A Fort Myers Miracle, the Double-A New Britain Rock Cats and the Triple-A Salt Lake City Buzz. He also played in the Toronto Blue Jays' system for both their Double-A (Tennessee) and Triple-A (Syracuse) teams. Bell holds the New Britain Rock Cats' franchise record for career strikeouts and is second in wins.

Prior to playing professionally, Bell pitched at Oklahoma State from 1993-95. While there, he participated in the 1993 College World Series and was an All-Big Eight selection in 1994 and 1995, when he led the Cowboys in ERA (3.30 and 3.10), innings pitched (128 and 145) and strikeouts (140 and 120). He was also a two-time All-American in 1994 and 1995, helping the team to three Big Eight Championships. He pitched 325.1 career innings, second-most in school history while his 31 victories are third. Bell's 145 innings pitched and 19 games started in 1995 are both school records. He also holds the school record for consecutive victories with 19, spanning from 1993-95.

A native of Orlando, Fla. Bell graduated from William R. Boone High School in Orlando in 1992. He earned his bachelor's degree from Oklahoma State in Sociology in 2003 after returning to school following his professional career. Bell resides with his wife Tracy and newborn, Reagan Elizabeth.

ASSISTANT COACHES

Assistant Coach #2

Eric
FOLMAR

Fifth Year
Old Dominion, 1999

Eric Folmar enters his fifth season as an assistant coach at Penn State. He serves as the program's recruiting coordinator and is responsible for coaching the infielders, outfielders and base running, as well as assisting with day-to-day operations. He also serves as the team's third base coach. Prior to Penn State, he spent four years as an assistant coach at his alma mater, Old Dominion.

Folmar has teamed with pitching coach Jason Bell to bring top talent to Happy Valley. He has brought in players like former pitcher Drew O'Neil, who went on to twice be selected in the top 10 rounds of the Major League Baseball Draft. After getting drafted in the eighth round by the Cincinnati Reds in 2007, he chose to remain in school and was then picked in the fourth round by the Chicago White Sox in '08. Folmar has also recruited some of the top in-state talent as 16 members of the current team are from the Keystone State.

Penn State has consistently been near the top of the Big Ten in double plays since Folmar's arrival. Last season, the Nittany Lions turned the most double plays in the conference (66), four ahead of Indiana in second. They also finished with a .964 team fielding percentage, better than the Big Ten average and their best showing since 2006.

In 2008, the Nittany Lion infield fielded the second most double plays in the Big Ten (56). It was also second in assists with 640, led by Landon Nakata's conference-leading 179.

The Penn State infield had its second-consecutive solid year under Folmar's direction in 2007, as the Nittany Lions fielded at a .963 clip. Second baseman Matt Cavagnaro was one of the top defensive players in the country, finishing with just five errors and a remarkable .983 fielding percentage.

Folmar's work with the infield was instrumental in Penn State committing the second-fewest errors in the conference in 2006. The Nittany Lions were tied for third in the Big Ten in fielding percentage that year.

In addition, first baseman Cory Wine easily obtained the school record for career putouts with 1,903, a full 710 ahead of Mike DeRenzo in second place. He currently owns the top four single-season marks with 521 (2007), 505 (2008), 458 (2007) and 419 (2006), respectively.

While Folmar was at Old Dominion from 2002-05, he was responsible for coaching the infielders and catchers while assisting with recruiting. Folmar also served as the Monarchs' camp coordinator.

Prior to returning to his alma mater following the 2001 season, he served for two years as an assistant coach at Young Harris Junior College (Young Harris, Ga.), the same junior college as current Nittany Lions Michael Glantz and C.J. Smith. While there, he coached the team's infielders and catchers and acted as the baseball camp coordinator. The Mountain Lions won 82 games and two conference titles in his two years.

Folmar was a four-year starter at Old Dominion from 1996-1999, helping lead the Monarchs to three Colonial Athletic Association Championship game appearances. The Monarchs went on to win the 1996 CAA Championship and advanced to the NCAA Regionals.

A native of Chambersburg, Pa., Folmar earned his bachelor's degree in health and physical education from Old Dominion in 1999. He is married to former Monarch field hockey All-American Kim Miller, a former member of the U.S. National Team. The couple has three children, Bryce (6), Zac (4) and Alex (2) and is expecting their fourth boy in April.

ASSISTANT COACHES

Assistant Coach #41

Will
HOOVER

Second Year
Phoenix, 2007

Will Hoover, a former scout, coach and minor league baseball player, enters his second season as assistant coach with the Penn State baseball program.

Hoover contributes to much of the day-to-day coaching of the Nittany Lions. His main focus is the hitters, working with them in outlining the offensive approach, running drills and performing video analysis. Other duties involve working with the catchers while also serving as the first base coach on game day.

Under his tutelage, Penn State put forth a solid offensive season in 2009. Led by freshman Jordan Steranka, the Lions finished the season with a .294 team batting average, their highest since the 2005 season when they hit at a .302 clip. On an individual basis, Steranka netted Penn State's "triple crown," leading the squad in batting average (.365), home runs (6) and RBI (42). He was later named to the All-Big Ten Third Team and to the All-Rookie Team. In total, four players finished with a .300 or better average with three others within .05 of that mark. Along with Steranka, two others drove in 40 or more runs.

The native of Cumberland, Pa. previously managed the Cedar Cliff (Camp Hill, Pa.) High School varsity baseball team. During his very successful tenure, the Colts amassed 149 victories and were consistently at or near the top of the Mid-Penn conference as a perennial playoff team. He was honored with the Mid-Penn Conference Baseball Coach of the Year accolades in 2005 when he led the squad to a conference championship. Hoover graduated 45 All-Conference players with 96 percent of them going on to college. Many of his players went on to play at various Division I, II, and III programs throughout the country.

WHAT THE PLAYERS ARE SAYING...

"Coach Hoover has been a great resource to our team ever since his addition to the coaching staff. He has spent many hours working with the hitters in the cage and watching video. His coaching has made a positive impact on our offensive production as a team and in our approach to hitting. As a player that has worked with Coach Hoover frequently, I have benefited from his teaching and he has helped me improve my game, both offensively and defensively."

Junior Catcher Ben Heath

"Coach Hoover has helped me greatly with my personal development as a hitter. The intelligence he has for the subject of hitting is extraordinary. In the short two years I've been here, the knowledge about hitting that I have learned from him has helped me grow tremendously as a hitter. Coach has been a great addition to the staff and his expertise significantly benefits our team."

Sophomore Third Baseman Jordan Steranka

"Coach Hoover is a tremendous asset to our team. His knowledge and love for the game is unlike anyone I have ever been around. He has helped me in every aspect of my game, and I learn something new every time I am around him. The commitment and time he has given to this program has earned the respect of all the players."

Senior Second Baseman Louie Picconi

Hoover came to Penn State with a plethora of baseball experience. Drafted as a catcher by Colorado in 1993, he played in both the Rockies' and New York Mets' farm systems.

Upon the end of his playing career, Hoover became a professional player development consultant and scout. He was employed as a Rockies' associate scout for eight years. He is also an advanced scout for Inside Edge, Inc., Baseball Info Solutions and the Baseline Group/Dugout Central, Inc. baseball consulting services.

Will was also selected as the head baseball coach for the Capitol Region of the 2003-08 Pennsylvania State Keystone Games. In addition, he has worked as a color analyst for the PA SportsFever Television Network.

Hoover holds a Bachelor's Degree in Business Administration from the University of Phoenix. He currently serves as vice president of marketing for Hoover Rehabilitation Services, Inc., the largest private health and disability management firm in the Mid-Atlantic. Hoover lives in New Cumberland, Pa., with his wife, Wendy, and three daughters: Emerson (4), Addison (2) and newborn Grayson. He also has two boxer pups named Dig and Wakely.

INSIDE THE COACH'S BOX

"Dave is back for his final season as he pursues his graduate degree. Last year, he stepped up and performed when we needed him, solidifying the closer's role for much of the year. Lutz is one of our team captains and is someone you can always count on to give 100 percent. He has been a pleasure to coach over the last five years."

INSIDE THE COACH'S BOX

"After suffering an injury that sidelined him last season, Mike has worked hard over the past year to rehab his arm and get back on the mound. He had a good season two years ago and there is no doubt that he will once again be a major contributor to our pitching staff in 2010. We are certainly glad to have him back and expect a solid senior year from our big right-hander."

REVIEW NOTEBOOK

NITTANY LIONS RIDE ROLLER COASTER IN 2009

- The Penn State baseball team entered the '09 season with high hopes. After starting the year on fire, the Lions fell short of reaching their third-consecutive Big Ten Tournament. Despite the disappointment, the squad did finish with a 25-26 record, one of only four Big Ten teams (along with Illinois, Michigan and Ohio State) to post 25 or more victories in each of the last three seasons.
- The Nittany Lions won 13 of their first 21 games and 21 of their first 35. Included in that stretch was taking two of three at the inaugural Big Ten/BIG EAST Challenge. They were one of six Big Ten squads to finish the weekend with a winning record.
- They then went on to battle at #4 Texas, but were swept by the powerhouse Longhorns. Included was a nail-biting 1-0 defeat in which senior T.J. Macy sparkled on the mound.
- Penn State subsequently won six of its next nine, but the best was yet to come as the Lions followed with six straight wins in the latter stages of March. After the streak was snapped, they rebounded with a thrilling 15-11 victory over #16 Ohio State on Mar. 29.
- Success continued into the beginning of April, with notable wins coming against perennial conference power Michigan, eventual NCAA qualifier Indiana and Big Ten Tournament participant Purdue. The Nittany Lions would finish the year having beaten four of the six tournament participants at least once.
- Following their huge win over Indiana on Apr. 17, the Nittany Lions would struggle down the stretch.
- Penn State was still alive for a postseason berth heading into the final weekend of the regular season at home. Despite dropping the first two games against #21 Minnesota to eliminate any postseason aspirations, the Lions would ultimately have a say in the Big Ten race. They then went on to a thrilling 10-8 win on May 16 amidst two rain delays to prevent the Golden Gophers from winning the Big Ten Regular Season Championship, while also concluding the season on a positive note.

FRESHMEN IGNAS & STERANKA HIGHLIGHT BIG TEN POST-SEASON HONORS

- Penn State freshmen Ryan Ignas and Jordan Steranka were both named to the All-Big Ten Third Team, marking the first time since 1995 that the Nittany Lions netted multiple freshmen on the All-Conference squad.
- Ignas enjoyed an impressive rookie season, leading the team in both wins and saves. He was one of just 10 players in all of Division I to accomplish that feat. He appeared in 22 games (two starts) with a 5-1 record, 5.31 ERA and 1.25 WHIP (walks and hits per innings pitched). He posted five saves while holding opponents to a .270 average.
- Steranka made his mark on Penn State baseball history, becoming the program's all-time single-season hits leader for a freshman. The third baseman tallied 70 and also earned the team's "triple crown," leading in average (.365), home runs (6) and RBI (42). He was atop triples (3) and runs scored (39) as well.
- In addition to All-Conference accolades, Steranka was a unanimous choice as the All-Freshman Team third baseman.
- Ryan Boonie was awarded the Sportsmanship Award, which is presented to one player from each of the Big Ten baseball programs.

HITTING STREAKS APLENTY

- The 2009 season saw a number of lengthy hitting streaks from Penn State players.
- The top came from freshman Jordan Steranka (18 games), which was tied for fourth in program history.
- In addition, senior Blake Lynd and sophomore Grant Youngblood saw streaks reach 14 games, tied for 15th all-time.
- In fact, Youngblood's streak was actually 15 games dating back to the final game of 2008. That mark is the fourth-longest to bridge two seasons.
- Louie Picconi also posted a career-best 11-game hitting streak.
- All the impressive marks are still far from the Penn State all-time leader, Michael Campo, whose streak reached 41 games in 2000.
- For the complete list of hitting streaks, please see page 104.

MILESTONE GAME FOR PENN STATE BASEBALL

- Penn State played in its 3,000th all-time game on Mar. 1 of last season. fittingly, it came against the winningest program in NCAA history, Texas.
- The Nittany Lions stand in the top 50 in all-time winning percentage among schools with a minimum of 25 years in Division I. Their all-time record is 1,835-1,188-21 (.606).
- Baseball is the oldest intercollegiate sport at Penn State, dating back to its debut in 1875. This season marks the Nittany Lions' 122nd in program history due to not fielding a team for several years in the late 1880s. Penn State is one of only a select few schools in the nation to boast a team for at least 120 years.

LUTZ, ALFRENO EMERGE IN PEN

- Lefty David Lutz and righty Jesse Alfreno impressed in the bullpen last season, finishing atop the team in ERA (3.38 and 4.44, respectively). Both took very different paths to where they are today as arguably the top pitchers in the Lions' pen.
- Lutz, a former walk-on was Penn State's most consistent pitcher in 2009, finishing with a 4-2 record and three saves to go with his stout ERA. Batters only hit .247 against him.
- Alfreno, also a member of the Penn State football team, impressed in his first collegiate baseball season. He made his mark from the beginning, going nine innings spanning his first five appearances before allowing a run. Opponents only hit .226 against him for the year.
- The duo allowed fewer hits than innings pitched. The only other Nittany Lion with at least 10 innings of work to accomplish that was T.J. Macy, who gave up 76 base knocks in a team-leading 76.1 innings.

CORY WINE FINISHES PENN STATE CAREER AMONG PROGRAM'S BEST

- Cory Wine concluded his collegiate career in 2009 among Penn State's career statistical leaders in a number of categories.
- One of the top hitters last year and throughout his entire career, he finished his senior season with a .307 average, five home runs and 41 RBI.
- He leaves as the Penn State all-time leader in three categories: at-bats (799), putouts (1,903) and sacrifice flies (13, tie).
- Wine is also third in career hits (228), triples (9) and total bases (338), fifth in RBI (128), sixth in doubles (44) and eighth in walks (85).
- His 458 putouts last season were third in single-season history. Wine owns the top four all-time slots.

THREE FROM PENN STATE SELECTED IN MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL DRAFT

- Three Penn State student-athletes were selected in June's Major League Baseball Amateur Draft. Pitcher Scott Kelley was selected in the 23rd round, first baseman Cory Wine in the 38th and Nittany Lion football player Anthony Scirrotto in the 50th.
- Kelley was the first selectee, going to the Kansas City Royals with the 692nd overall pick.
- The following day, Wine was selected in the 38th round (1,157th overall) by his grandfather's old team, the Philadelphia Phillies. Bobby played eight seasons for the Phillies in the 1960s.
- Then, a surprise selection came as Penn State football safety Scirrotto was picked in the 50th round, also by the Royals. Scirrotto last played baseball in high school, but was highly-touted and considered by many as a potential second-round Major League Draft selection coming out of high school. He chose to play football at Penn State rather than pursuing a baseball career.

FORMER PENN STATERS IMPRESS IN THE PROFESSIONAL RANKS

- Former Nittany Lions continued to represent Penn State well in the pros in 2009, highlighted by Craig Clark's emergence as a dominant pitcher in the California League (High-A).
- The San Jose Giants pitcher finished the year with a 16-2 record and 2.86 ERA to win the league's pitcher of the year honors. He was promoted to Double-A Connecticut to finish the season and pitched against both New Britain and Akron in the Eastern League Playoffs.
- Clark also made news on June 1 by striking out 10 consecutive Stockton Port batters to tie a California League record. He finished the season among the league leaders in K's with 135 in 147.2 innings of work.
- Also emerging was David Aardsma of the Seattle Mariners, who had a breakout season in his first experience as a Major League closer. Aardsma, who pitched in Happy Valley in 2001, finished the season tied for fourth in the American League in saves with 38. He also struck out 80 batters in 71.1 innings, only allowing 49 hits for a minuscule .190 batting average against. He posted a career-best 2.52 ERA for the year.
- Another feel-good story came from pitcher and former first round pick Nate Bump. After winning a World Series with the Marlins in 2003, he bounced around and eventually found himself with the Independent League's Camden Riversharks last season. He was signed by the Detroit

Penn State 3, #1 North Carolina 2 (10 innings)

Penn State scores in the seventh and ninth innings to erase a 2-0 deficit and force extra innings, where they score in the 10th for the dramatic win over #1 nationally ranked and previously undefeated North Carolina. The Nittany Lions even the score at two behind a two-out ninth inning home run from Rob Yodice. Craig Clark pitches eight innings, allowing two runs on only four hits while Drew O'Neil tosses a hitless ninth and 10th for the victory. The win also marks head coach Robbie Wine's 50th of his career.

Rob Yodice was the ninth-inning hero in the thrilling extra inning win over #1 North Carolina.

Penn State 6, Illinois 2

The Nittany Lions open the 2007 Big Ten Tournament with a win and loss on May 23 and 24, forcing them into a must-win situation on May 25. They start by topping host Michigan, who came in as the top seed. Cory Wine is the hero, hitting the go-ahead solo home run in the 10th inning to keep Penn State alive another game. They then go on to beat Illinois hours later in another win-or-go-home scenario.

Penn State 10, #21 Minnesota 8

Down 8-5 heading into the bottom of the fourth inning, Penn State bounces back with a run in the fifth, three in the sixth and one more in the seventh for a 10-8 lead, which would stand as the final. Calvin Grumley, Ryan Ignas and David Lutz combine to toss six shutout innings in relief for the memorable season-finale amidst two rain delays. In the process, the Nittany Lions prevent the Golden Gophers from the Big Ten Regular Season Championship, dropping them down to the second seed for the upcoming Big Ten Tournament.

Calvin Grumley, Ryan Ignas and David Lutz shut down a potent Minnesota attack over the final six innings to give Penn State the thrilling win.

PROGRAM TIMELINE

The Performance: The Lions posted a 17-6 record en route to their first College World Series appearance in school history.

The Story: Anchored by freshman Keith Vesling (7-3, 2.40 ERA, 82.1 IP), Penn State's three-man rotation dominated opposing hitters. Bill Ever-son and Jack Krumrine each posted 5-1 marks to round out a rotation that combined for all 17 of the Lions' wins.

The Result: After a fine season and back-to-back wins in the District II Regionals, the Nittany Lions bowed out of their first CWS appearance. They fell to eventual champion, Holy Cross, and took home a tie for third.

The Performance: The "Technology Bandwagon" made its way through Happy Valley as coach Joe Bedenk invested in an early model of today's pitching machine. The machine, an awkward and inefficient contraption, was able to hurl one ball every eight seconds.

The Story: After having his spring batting practices delayed weeks at a time due to weather conditions, Bedenk was finally able to take his men indoors to get their swings. In addition to buying his batters over two weeks of extra batting practice, the machine also kept his pitchers' arms fresh as they threw batting practice in previous years.

The Result: It didn't take long to see a return on the technological investment. The 1957 squad made a run to the College World Series Finals.

The Performance: After reeling off a school-record 21 consecutive wins to start the year, the 1957 Nittany Lions became arguably the best team in school history and in doing so, became the benchmark for success in Happy Valley. Finishing with a 22-2 record and a school-best second place finish in the College World Series.

The Story: Legendary hurler Ed Drapcho (12-0, 1.52 ERA; single-season school record wins) and two-sport star Cal Emery (10-1, captain of basketball team) posted all 22 of the Lions' wins. The tandem also tallied an astounding 15 complete games and gave up a combined 29 earned runs.

Drapcho became the school's first-ever First Team All-American and Emery, despite the Penn State loss to California in the CWS Finals, became the only NCAA Tournament MVP in school history.

The Result: After a 17-0 regular season and four consecutive postseason victories, the squad ran into a juggernaut in the University of California. Penn State fell defeat in both the second round and finals to take runner-up honors while making its mark in the record books.

The Performance: Reminiscent to the 1952 season in which Penn State made its first College World Series, the 1959 squad posted an identical 17-6 record while making the school's third CWS appearance.

The Story: As per the theme of the 1950s, dominant pitching led the Lions into the postseason. The staff as a whole posted a skimpy 2.66 ERA for a Nittany Lion squad that outscored its opponents by a 172-89 margin.

The Result: Penn State defeated Connecticut, 5-3, in the first round before falling into the losers' bracket after an 8-6 loss to eventual College World Series champion Oklahoma State. The persistent Lions fought back through the losers' bracket by shutting out Clemson 7-0, only to fall to the same Oklahoma State Cowboys, 4-3, when the Cowboys rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth inning. It marked the third time in the decade in which Penn State lost to the eventual College World Series Champion. The Nittany Lions finished fourth.

The Performance: In Chuck Medlar's first season at the Penn State coaching helm, his Lions posted a 14-6 record in making their first and last College World Series appearance of the decade.

The Story: In addition to posting a 10-2 mark (10 wins, tied for third on school's single-season wins list) and a minuscule 1.94 ERA, Bob Fenton also tallied no-hit games in wins over Cornell (17-0) and Rider (3-0, District II Regionals). He became just the third of eight Nittany Lions to toss no-hitters and the first to accomplish the feat twice.

The Result: Medlar debuted in fine fashion, leading his squad to the College World Series after a three-year absence. The Lions, after finishing the regular season 11-4, won three of their five postseason matchups to close the season with a 14-6 record and a fifth-place CWS finish.

The Performance: Penn State, again led by a dominant pitching staff, posted a 19-7 record and made the last of its five College World Series appearances.

The Story: Mitch Lukevics, a freshman, turned in one of the most dominating pitching performances in school history to lead a rock-solid Nittany Lion squad. Lukevics, from nearby Bellefonte, posted a 7-2 record with a 1.23 ERA in the first of his three seasons at Penn State. To go along with his impressive stats, he finished the season with 86 strikeouts in just 65.2 innings of work, a ratio of 11.7 K per nine innings (seventh in the nation).

Lukevics in the Penn State Record Book

Career Record: 24-5 (3rd in wins)

ERA: 1.24 (1st)

Strikeouts: 266 (3rd)

Shutouts: 9 (1st)

Single-Season Shutouts: 3 (2nd)

Wins: 11 (1975, 2nd)

The Result: Despite going 0-2 in the College World Series, the Lions finished the postseason with a 3-2 mark and an overall record of 19-7.

Bill Benton (1959-60) is one of only four Nittany Lions to hit two triples in a game.

PROGRAM TIMELINE

1976

The Performance: The Lions posted an 18-8 record on their way to the school's last NCAA appearance until 2000.

The Story: The most notable of the squad's 18 wins came on April 19 in a 9-3 handling of George Washington. The win marked the team's eighth of the season and 1,000th in school history.

The Result: After posting an 18-6 regular season record, the Lions dropped their first two postseason games and bowed out of the Regionals. Greg Vogel was rewarded for an outstanding season by nabbing First Team All-America status. He became just the third of four Nittany Lions to receive the honor. Vogel was rewarded again after the season by becoming the first-ever Penn Stater to be selected in the first round of the Major League Baseball Draft.

The Performance: David Simononis turned in arguably the best offensive season in Penn State history.

The Storyline: Simononis hit a school-record 17 home runs, all with significant meaning. Penn State went 11-2 in games when Simononis homered and just 6-4-2 when he didn't.

Simonis also tallied the best single-season slugging percentage (total bases/at-bats) in school history with 1.100, hit .478 (also best) and recorded a 13-game hit streak.

The Result: Simononis not only led the Lions to a solid 17-6-2 record, but he also propelled himself into the Penn State record books with his dominant offensive performance.

1990

The Performance: O.J McDuffie, of PSU Football and NFL fame, played his first and last season for the Nittany Lion baseball squad.

The Storyline: McDuffie stole 20 bases (t-3rd, single season-school history) on 21 attempts (96 percent clip), hit .336 and had a .969 fielding percentage.

The Result: As a reward for his stellar football play, McDuffie was taken in the first round of the NFL Draft by the Miami Dolphins (1993).

The Performance: With a 19-8 Big Ten season (32-24-1 overall), the Nittany Lions won the school's only Big Ten Championship.

The Story: Baby-faced sophomore Nate Bump led a list of 10 All-Big Ten honorees, including first-teamers Bump and Carl Albrecht. Bump was also named Big Ten Pitcher of the Year and Pitcher of the Week three times. The sophomore posted an 8-5 mark, including three shutouts and seven complete games, to go along with his 3.60 ERA and 93 strikeouts.

The Result: The result was a Big Ten Championship and a Big Ten Coach of the Year honor for sixth-year head coach, Joe Hindelang.

The Performance: After a 24-year NCAA absence, the 2000 Lions posted a 45-19 record and advanced to the postseason for the first time since 1976.

The Storyline: Led by the banner year of First Team All-American Michael Campo, Penn State tallied a 41-16 regular season record. Campo established single-season school records in at-bats (261), hits (111), doubles (24) and runs (83) on his way to Big Ten Player of the Year and Academic All-Big Ten accolades.

In postseason action, freshman Kevin Damiano stepped into the limelight. In the Upper Montclair Regional, Damiano's nine innings with just six hits allowed against North Carolina earned Penn State the Regional Title and himself the Most Outstanding Player Award. The Lions cruised through the regional with a 4-1 record, including two victories over the Tar Heels.

The Result: Despite dropping back-to-back games to Texas in Super Regional action, the 2000 Lions finished a school-record 45 wins. The program also saw five players - Shawn Fagan, Matt Harter, Eric Spadt, Chris Netwall and Scott Russo - drafted by Major League clubs.

The Performance: Penn State set a school record for most Big Ten wins and tied its second-best finish in the Big Ten. Numerous individuals also break school records.

The Storyline: After starting out the season 2-12 against one of the toughest schedules in the country, the Nittany Lions finished the year with a 29-14 record to finish 31-26, just the fifth time with at least 30 wins in school history. Penn State also tied for second in the Big Ten behind a 20-10 conference record. That mark is tied with the 2000 team for the second-best Big Ten finish in school history while surpassing the 19 Big Ten games won by the 1996 squad for the most in school history. The team also won three Big Ten Tournament games (tied for most in school history) while its five Big Ten series wins were tied for the second most.

Individually, Drew O'Neil broke the school record for most saves in a season with 11. Matt Ogrodnik broke his own school record by appearing in 29 games while Scott Gaffney's 17 sacrifices were a new record as well. In addition, Cory Wine broke his own mark for putouts with 521.

The Result: Despite its hot streak at the end of the year that featured wins in five of its last six Big Ten series and three straight in the conference tournament, Penn State fell just short of an NCAA Tournament berth. However, the Nittany Lions ended their first season at Medlar Field at Lubrano Park with some new records, many memories and with upward momentum for the program.

TEAM AWARD WINNERS

F. JOSEPH BEDENK AWARD

The F. Joseph Bedenk Award is presented each year to the most valuable member of the Penn State baseball team. It is given in memory of the Nittany Lions' legendary coach, Joe Bedenk, who guided Penn State from 1931-62 and is the all-time leader in wins for Penn State coaches with 380.

The 2009 winner was freshman third baseman Jordan Steranka. He led the Nittany Lions in most every offensive category, including the team's "triple crown" of average (.365), home runs (6) and RBI (42). In the process, he also set a Penn State freshman hits record with 70. The native of Pittsburgh earned a spot onto the Big Ten All-Conference Third Team.

ED DRAPCHO AWARD

The Ed Drapcho Award is named after Ed Drapcho, a former Penn State All-American pitcher from 1955 to 1957. Drapcho still holds several school records to this day, including career wins and complete games, season wins, complete games and winning percentage and strikeouts in a single game. The award is given annually to the most improved player on the team.

The 2009 winner was catcher Ben Heath. Along with success at the plate, he came into his own with the pitching staff and became a dependable signal-caller. In his first year of significant action, he hit .289 with three home runs and 20 driven in.

CHARLES MEDLAR AWARD

The Charles Medlar Award is named after Charles "Chuck" Medlar, whom Penn State's home stadium Medlar Field at Lubrano Park is also named after. Medlar was Penn State's head coach from 1963-1981 and ranks third all-time at Penn State in coaching wins with 312. He also led the Nittany Lions to a pair of College World Series. The award is presented each year to the outstanding pitcher on the Penn State team.

The winner was starting pitcher T.J. Macy, who put forth an impressive final season in Happy Valley. He finished with a team-leading 4.95 ERA among pitchers with at least 10 starts. Macy finished the season fifth in the Big Ten with 91 strikeouts, which is also good for eighth in Penn State single-season history. He also held batters to a .263 batting average ninth-best in the conference. Despite eventually falling defeat, one highlight came at #4 Texas when he pitched a complete-game gem, allowing only one run to the stout Longhorn offense.

In 2007, Gary Amato (left) and Matt Cavagnaro (center) became the first former Penn State players to suit up for the State College Spikes. They were drafted by the Pittsburgh Pirates in June. Scott Gummo (right) was actually the first first former Nittany Lion to play a professional game at Medlar Field at Lubrano Park when he appeared with the Hudson Valley Renegades in 2006.

 Member of the Penn State football team

DID YOU KNOW?

- Over the last three years, Penn State has had the third most draft selections out of all the Big Ten schools.
- Two current Nittany Lions were drafted out of high school: Mike Wanamaker (Pittsburgh Pirates in 2005) and Joey DeBernardis (Florida Marlins in 2008).
- Nate Bump recently won a World Series with the 2003 Florida Marlins. He saw action in two games in the National League Championship Series against the Chicago Cubs.
- A number of draftees have come from the Penn State football program, most recently Anthony Scirrotto this past June. Among the other two-sport athletes were Kerry Collins, currently of the NFL's Tennessee Titans, who was drafted on three separate occasions, but opted to pursue football.
- O.J. McDuffie (below), who played for the Nittany Lion baseball team in 1990, actually reached the highest level of his other sport, football. The wide receiver starred for the NFL's Miami Dolphins, finishing his career with 415 receptions, fourth in franchise history. His best season came in 1998 when he made a league-leading 90 catches.

Chris Netwall was one of five Penn State draft picks in 2000.

LEGEND OF MONTE WARD

"In the spring of 1875, Old Main on the Penn State campus looked down on a strange sight. On the front lawn, a small crowd was gathering in a semi-circle. In the center were three stakes driven in a straight line. And there was a stocky, light-haired youth with a baseball in his hand."

"The youth stationed himself at one end of the row of stakes and placed a companion at the other. He poised himself a moment, then threw the baseball. It started on the right side of the first stake, passed to the left of the second and curved back to the right of the third before the companion caught it."

"The crowd pressed closer. Professor William A. Buckhout leaned forward. The youth repeated the feat. History does not record whether the crowd was convinced, but it does say that John Montgomery Ward was one of the first curve-ball pitchers in baseball history."

Those words were taken out of a 1954 story in the Centre Democrat about Ward.

Nittany Lion fans have heard of Greg Vogel, Nate Bump and Michael Campo. Those three are arguably three of the best players to ever compete in Happy Valley.

But the most heralded player to wear the blue and white (black and pink at the time) was John Montgomery Ward, who went by the name "Monte".

The story of Ward has been visited and revisited many times, but it never gets old and it's always enjoyable to hear.

The gifted student and athlete was a native of nearby Bellefonte, Pa. He was born on March 3, 1860, and enrolled at Penn State College at the ripe age of 13. He attended Penn State for several years and is generally given credit for helping found the very first Nittany Lion baseball team in 1875. However, the young pioneer never graduated from Penn State because he was kicked out of school for stealing chickens after numerous warnings from the administration. He received his Bachelor's and Law degrees from Columbia University in 1887.

Ward's one year on the Penn State squad presented opportunities that led him into the 1964 class of the Major League Baseball Hall of Fame.

During his illustrious major league career, Ward posted a .371 batting average twice, won 40-plus games as a pitcher twice, pitched the second perfect game in the history of baseball and served as captain and manager of the original New York Giants.

Ward set a major league record for most assists (12) by a second baseman in a nine inning game on June 10, 1892 (the first game of a doubleheader). That record still stands today and is held with seven other players - Ryne Sandberg, Harold Reynolds, Juan Samuel, Glenn Hubbard, Jim Gilliam, Tony Phillips and Don Money.

He accrued 2,151 hits while maintaining a career .283 batting average playing shortstop. As a pitcher, he won 158 games and recorded 25 shutouts with his curveball. In addition, he just missed another perfect game in 1882, allowing a home run in the 18th inning of a 1-0 defeat.

The New York Herald-Tribune once said, "Mr. Ward was one of the few men in baseball who started at the bottom and later became captain, manager and president of major league baseball clubs."

Ward posted a 412-320 (.563) record as a manager for four different teams. His statistics are impressive for a late-19th Century ballplayer.

But his contributions to the game go much further than what the record books say. Ward has been credited with three major additions that have changed the game forever.

In 1876, while attending Penn State and playing in a game for Lock Haven, Ward suffered a humiliating 40-0 loss against the Harrisburg "High Boys," which were the amateur baseball champions of Pennsylvania. Billy Hutter struck out 18 consecutive Lock Haven batters in the game.

Little did he know at the time, but Ward received the big break he needed after that game.

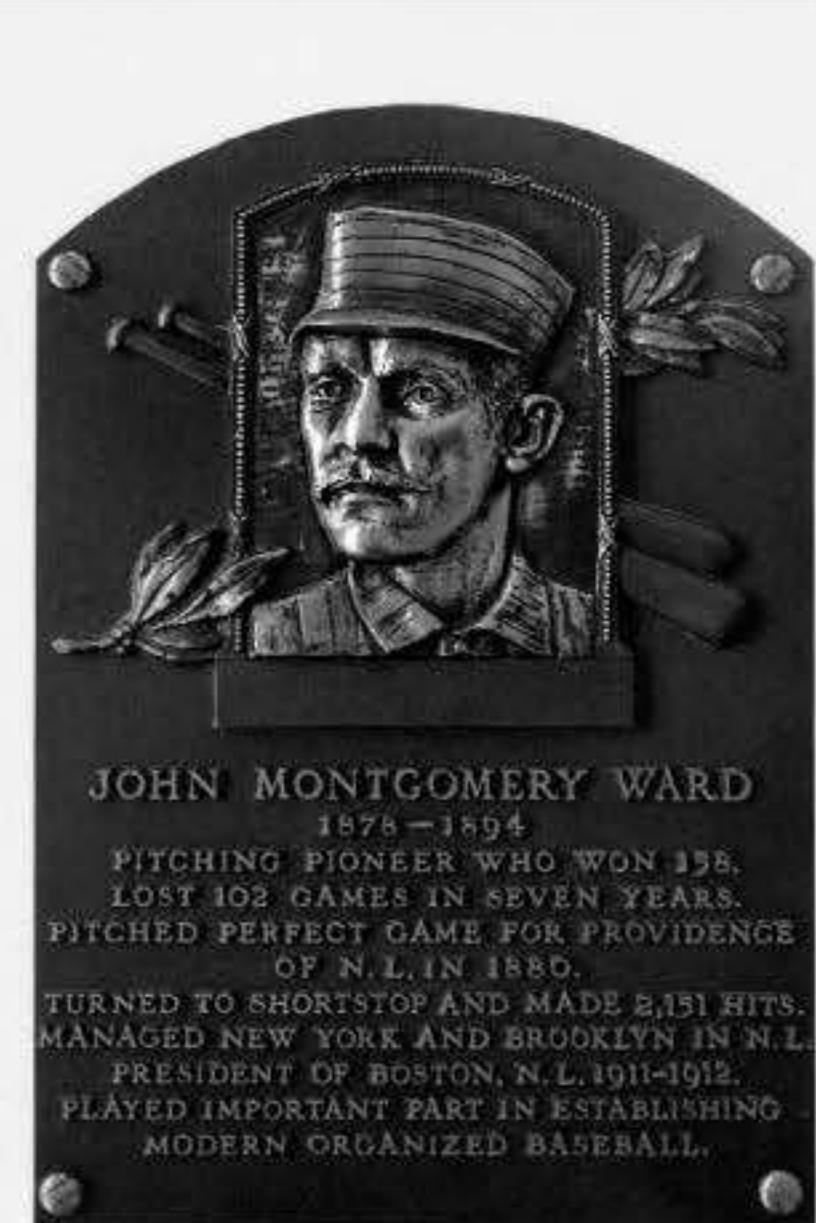

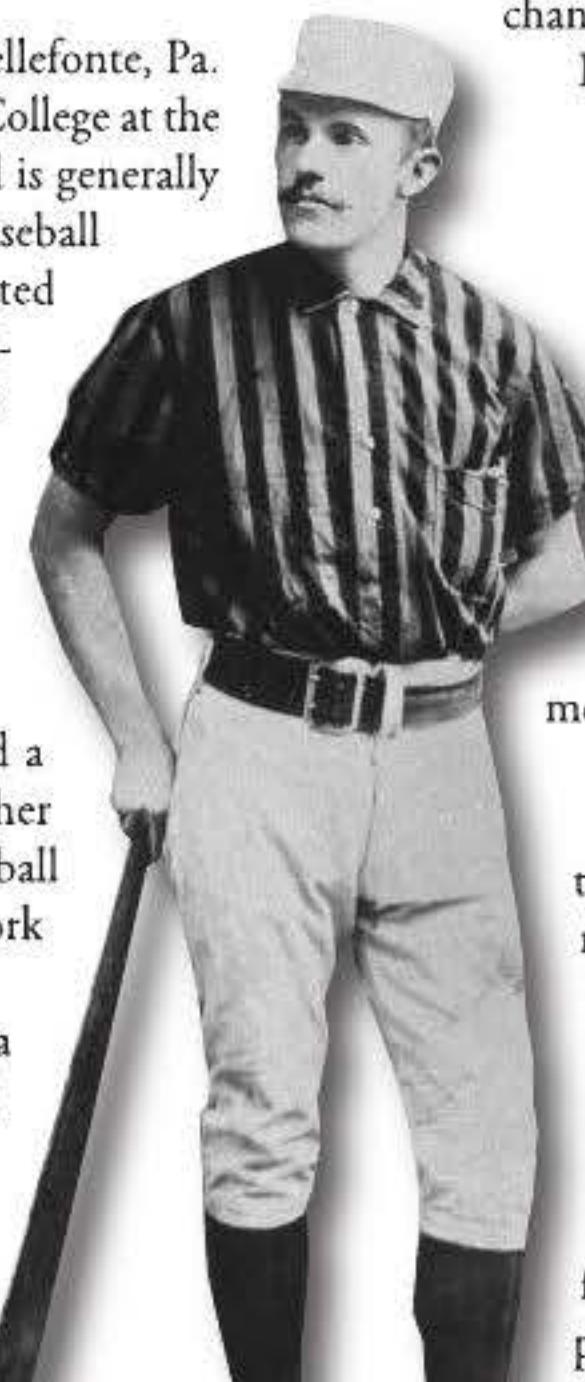

Hutter kept the Lock Haven offense off balance with his curveball. The "curve pitch," as it was called, was only in its infancy at the time and had yet to be perfected. Ward approached Hutter following the game, introduced himself, and learned the fundamentals of the curve behind the Harrisburg team hotel.

Ward perfected the pitch - and the rest is history.

The New York Mutuals' Art Cummings pitched a curveball earlier than Hutter, which he learned from Bobby Matthews, but none reached the heights that Ward did.

While the curveball was a major addition to the game, Ward added a few other dimensions to the game that players from middle school to the major leagues use as tactics to this very day.

Ward is credited as one of the creative minds in developing schemes for defending the double steal. He is also believed to be the first pitcher to intentionally walk a batter in order to set up a double play.

NITTANY LION TRADITIONS

NITTANY LION LEGEND

Penn State's athletic symbol, chosen by the student body in 1906, is the mountain lion which once roamed central Pennsylvania.

H.D. "Joe" Mason, a member of the Class of 1907, conducted a one-man campaign to choose a school mascot after seeing the Princeton tiger on a trip with the Penn State baseball team to that New Jersey campus. A student publication sponsored the campaign to select a mascot and Penn State is believed to be the first college to adopt the lion as a mascot.

Since Penn State is located in the Nittany Valley at the foot of Mount Nittany, the lion was designated as a Nittany Lion. In regional folklore, Nittany (or Nita-Nee) was a valorous Indian princess in whose honor the Great Spirit caused Mount Nittany to be formed. A later namesake, daughter of chief O-Ko-Cho, who lived near the mouth of Penn's Creek, fell in love with Malachi Boyer, a trader. The tearful maiden and her lost lover became legend and her name was given to the stately mountain.

THE NITTANY LION SHRINE

Penn State's Nittany Lion shrine was dedicated on October 24, 1942, during Homecoming Weekend. Animal sculptor Heinz Warneke and stonemason Joseph Garatti molded a 13-ton block of Indiana limestone into the most recognizable symbol of Penn State. The shrine was chosen from six models submitted by Warneke.

The shrine is a gift of the Class of 1940 and rests in a natural setting of trees near Recreation Building. The site was chosen because of its accessibility, the surrounding trees and the fact that the sculpture would not be dwarfed by nearby buildings.

BLUE & WHITE

Penn State's student-athletes are instantly identified by their blue and white uniforms — but those weren't the original school colors.

A three-member committee representing the sophomore, junior and senior classes was appointed in October of 1887 to develop color options from which the student body would select the school's official colors. Dark pink and black was the unanimous choice of the student body after considering the color combinations presented by the committee.

Soon many students and the baseball team were sporting pink and black striped blazers and caps. However, problems arose when the pink faded to white after several weeks of exposure to the sun. The students then opted for blue, rather than black, and white. The official announcement of the new choice was made on March 18, 1890.

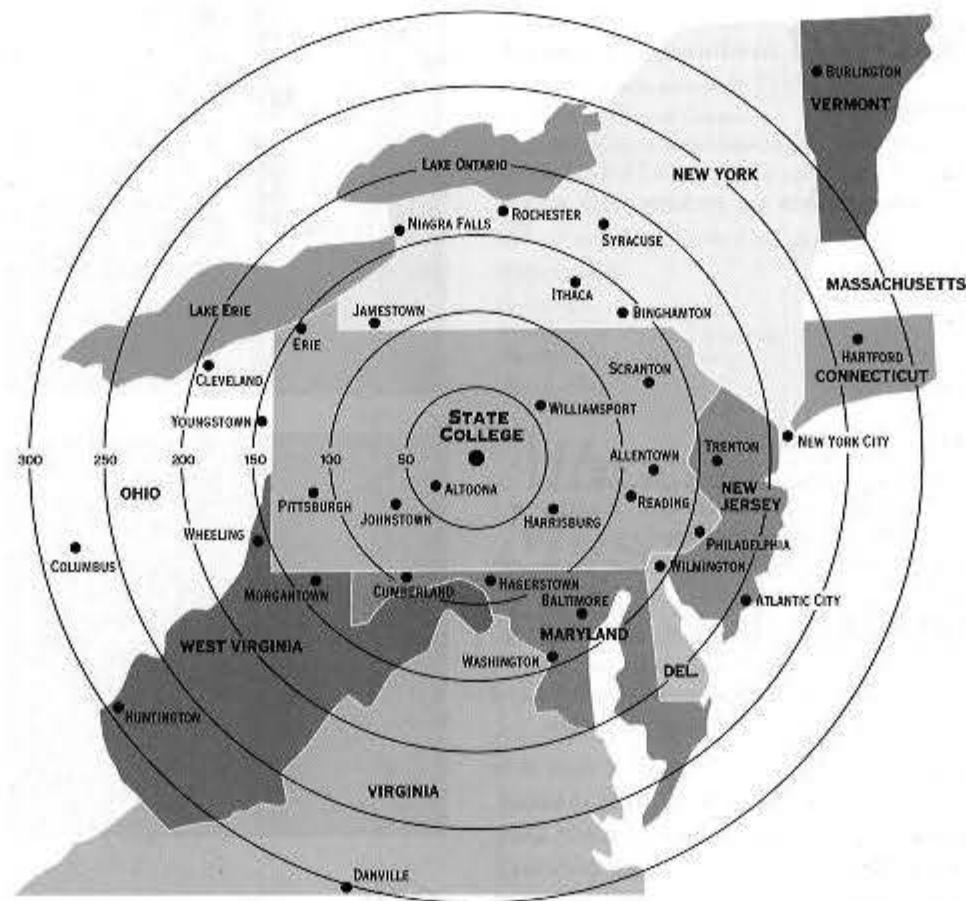

STATE COLLEGE AREA

Located among mountains and valleys in the exact geographic center of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Centre County thrives on its ability to blend education with industry, technology, historic shopping districts and farming communities.

The heart of the Centre Region is State College, a community featuring the best that life has to offer, in education, commerce, culture and recreation.

This mixture of the cosmopolitan and pastoral works so well that to many the Centre Region is known as "Happy Valley." The region is frequently ranked near the top of the charts by Money magazine's "Best Places To Live" and Rand McNally's "Retirement Places Rated Guide." In the late 1980's, Psychology Today called State College the least stressful place in the United States.

Centre County is home to The Pennsylvania State University, one of the finest teaching and research institutions in the land. Penn State's impact is great, from the touring Broadway shows that visit campus to two recent additions: the Penn State Research Park and the 15,261-seat Bryce Jordan Center.

The ebb-and-flow of students and activity in State College creates a vital downtown that always is bustling, but this is especially so during home football weekends in the fall and the nationally-acclaimed Central Pennsylvania Festival of the Arts every July.

Escape isn't far away. Less than 20 minutes from campus are quiet towns and villages with charms of their very own, as well as mountains, lakes and roaring streams and brooks.

PRESIDENT, DR. GRAHAM SPANIER

Dr. Graham
SPANIER

15th Year
PRESIDENT

Since he was appointed Penn State's 16th president in 1995, Dr. Graham Spanier has been the guiding force behind several historic academic initiatives, including the creation of The Schreyer Honors College, the School of International Affairs, the Penn State World Campus, and the College of Information Sciences and Technology. He has expanded outreach to citizens of Pennsylvania and has overseen more than $2.5 billion in philanthropic contributions to Penn State.

Dr. Spanier has been described as an unconventional university president. He loves spending time with students. He is a magician and adviser to the Penn State Performing Magicians, and he has performed with Penn State's Musical Theatre students, the Blue Band, the Glee Club, and the Chamber Orchestra. He occasionally substitutes for the Nittany Lion mascot. He has run with the bulls in Pamplona, has a commercial pilot's license, and plays the washboard with the Deacons of Dixieland and other bands. He and his racquetball partner are ten-time Penn State co-ed intramural racquetball champions. He is the host of "To the Best of My Knowledge," the live, call-in program on public television and radio. But most of his time is spent overseeing one of the nation's largest and most comprehensive universities, with 92,000 students and 44,000 employees on 24 campuses, an annual budget of nearly $4 billion, and a physical plant of 1,700 buildings.

A national leader in higher education, Dr. Spanier was the recipient of the 2009 TIAA-CREF Theodore M. Hesburgh Award for Leadership Excellence. He serves as chair of the National Security Higher Education Advisory Board, is a member of the National Counterintelligence Working Group, is a member of the Board of Advisors of the Naval Postgraduate School, and serves on the board of Junior Achievement Worldwide.

Dr. Spanier has chaired the Association of American Universities, the Board of Directors of the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, the Big Ten Conference Council of Presidents/Chancellors, and the NCAA Division I Board of Directors. He led the Kellogg Commission on the Future of State and Land-Grant Universities, was a founding member of the Internet2 board, and served on the Board of Trustees of the National 4-H Council. He was president of the National Council of Family Relations, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Christian Children's Fund, vice-chair of the Worldwide Universities Network, and co-chair of the Committee on Higher Education and the Entertainment Communities.

Dr. Spanier's prior positions include chancellor of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, provost and vice president for academic affairs at Oregon State University, and vice provost for undergraduate studies at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. He previously served Penn State from 1973-1982 as a member of the faculty and in three administrative positions in Penn State's College of Health and Human Development. He holds academic appointments as professor of human development and family studies, sociology, demography, and family and community medicine.

A distinguished researcher and scholar, he has more than 100 scholarly publications, including 10 books, and was the founding editor of the Journal of Family Issues. A family sociologist, demographer, and marriage and family therapist, he earned his Ph.D. in sociology from Northwestern University, where he was a Woodrow Wilson Fellow, and his bachelor's and master's degrees from Iowa State University, where he was honored with the Distinguished Achievement Citation and an honorary doctorate.

His wife, Sandra, is an English professor specializing in 20th-century American literature and serves as the general editor of Hemingway's letters. They have two children: Brian, a finance graduate of Penn State, and Hadley, a marketing graduate of Penn State.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR TIM CURLEY

Tim
CURLEY

16th Year
DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Well into his second decade as the architect of the Penn State Intercollegiate Athletics program, Tim Curley's dynamic and passionate leadership has been the driving force behind the Nittany Lions' tremendous level of athletic and academic achievement.

Named Director of Athletics on December 30, 1993, Curley's leadership has lifted Penn State among the nation's premier athletic departments. During the Nittany Lions' 16 full years as members of the Big Ten Conference, Penn State has captured 17 NCAA Championships, almost double the next closest Big Ten school.

Curley has seen Nittany Lion squads win 56 Big Ten titles and numerous individual national and conference crowns during his 15-plus years directing Penn State's comprehensive and nationally-respected athletic program. The Lions have won six NCAA Championships since March 2007.

In the 2008 fall semester, the women's volleyball team won an unprecedented sixth consecutive outright Big Ten Championship and captured its second consecutive NCAA title, earning a 38-0 record. The football team won its second conference title in the past four years and played in the 2009 Rose Bowl. The women's soccer team won its 10th consecutive Big Ten Championship, the second-longest string of Big Ten women's titles in any sport. The field hockey team also won the Big Ten title.

In the spring of 2009, the fencing team won its ninth NCAA Championship under Curley's watch and the women's track and field team captured its second consecutive Big Ten Outdoor title. The Nittany Lion basketball team won its first National Invitation Tournament championship, posting a program-record 27 victories.

Seventeen squads were represented in their respective NCAA Championships in 2008-09. An impressive eight teams finished in the Top 5 in 2007-08.

Include the 56 All-Americans and 41 first-team All-Big Ten selections (48 total first-team all-conference honorees), a record student-athlete Graduation Success Rate of 89 percent and a record 11 Academic All-Americans and 2008-09 was another tremendous year of Success With Honor for the Nittany Lions.

In June 2009, Curley again was recognized for his efforts in helping Penn State maintain its stature as one of the nation's premier athletic programs with his selection as the Northeast Athletic Director-of-the-Year by NACDA. He was one of just four regional Division I-A honorees and previously earned the award in 2003.

As he surveys the athletic program he has been instrumental in assembling over the past 33 years, Tim Curley can't help but be proud of the athletic and academic accomplishments of Penn State's 750 student-athletes in 29 varsity sports:

✓ During a visit to the University Park campus, NCAA President Myles Brand stated, "Penn State is the poster child for doing it right in college sports."

✓ In the initial 16 years of the NACDA Directors' Cup all-sports survey, Penn State has finished in the Top 25 every year, earning seven Top 10 finishes and four Top five placings. The Nittany Lions finished No. 9 in 2007-08 and No. 19 this past year.

✓ In the most recent comprehensive look at the 117 colleges and universities participating in Division I football and men's basketball, U.S. News and World Report selected Penn State as one of 10 Division I-A institutions for its College Sports Honor Roll.

✓ Penn State has captured 17 NCAA Championships in men's and women's volleyball; men's and women's fencing and men's gymnastics during Curley's tenure. Nittany and Lady Lion teams have made 29 NCAA "Final Four" appearances during his tenure.

✓ Penn State also has established itself as a force in the highly competitive Big Ten — winning 60 regular-season or tournament titles in football, baseball, women's basketball, field hockey, men's gymnastics, men's soccer, women's soccer, men's and women's swimming and diving, women's indoor and outdoor track and field and women's volleyball. The Lions have won 30 Big Ten titles over the past seven years, including a school-record six in 2005-06 and 2008-09.

✓ In October 2008, the NCAA reported that Penn State student-athletes earned a school-record 89 percent Graduation Success Rate, 11 points higher than the national Division I-A average. Twenty-two of Penn State's 25 teams compiled a GSR at or above the national average of 78 percent or higher (track and field and cross country count as one sport).

✓ During the 2008-09 academic year, 253 Penn State student-athletes received Academic All-Big Ten honors, tied for the second-highest in program history. Over the past 15 years, Penn State leads all Big Ten institutions with 3,312 academic all-conference honorees. There were a school-record 261 honorees in 2007-08.

To continue to give the coaching staff and student-athletes the resources to succeed academically and athletically, Curley is guiding the most ambitious fund-raising and athletics facilities campaigns in the department's history. More than $120 million was raised for Intercollegiate Athletics by June 2008 to surpass the Success With Honor Campaign goal of $100 million.

The most recently completed capital project was a new baseball stadium — Medlar Field at Lubrano Park. The Penn State baseball team shares the state-of-the-art facility with a short-season minor league team — the State College Spikes. Curley played a significant role in developing the unique partnership for the construction of the 5,406-seat stadium.

The 12,500-seat expansion and renovation of Beaver Stadium was completed in 2001, raising the capacity to 107,282. The project included private suite and club level seating previously unavailable and the construction of the magnificent Penn State All-Sports Museum to house Penn State's impressive collection of sports memorabilia.

Other facility projects completed in the past decade include the Lasch Football Building, Ashenfelter Indoor Multi-Sport Facility and Sarni Tennis Center and renovations to the White Building, East Area Locker Room, Jeffrey Field and a new field hockey facility.

Curley also oversees the expansive intramural/club sport programs — which included a fourth consecutive national championship in men's ice hockey in 2003 and women's rugby national titles in 2004 and 2009 — on the University Park campus, as well as general recreational activities.

Curley served as president of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) in 2005-06. He was the first Penn State Athletic Director to serve as president of NACDA, which is a professional and educational association for more than 6,100 athletic administrators at more than 1,600 institutions in the United States, Canada and Mexico. He was elected a NACDA officer in 2002.

It is no exaggeration to say Tim Curley is someone who knows the Penn State athletic program from the ground up. A State College product, he grew up across the street from Old Beaver Field where some of his most memorable days as a youngster were spent there and in Rec Hall.

Curley, 55, has been a full-time member of the athletic staff since he joined the department as a graduate assistant football coach. A product of State College Area High School where he played basketball and football for Jim Williams' undefeated 1971 team, Curley walked on as a football player only to have his career cut short by injuries. After earning his bachelor's degree in health and physical education in 1976, he served a year as a graduate assistant coach while pursuing his master's degree in counselor education.

Curley was named the Lions' first full-time football recruiting coordinator in 1978 and was instrumental in identifying and recruiting a number of members of the 1982 national championship team. In 1981, he was named assistant to the athletic director where he was involved with the day-to-day operations of the department.

Curley was active in the development of the Academic Support Center for Student-Athletes; the Penn State Sports Medicine Center; the Varsity "S" Club and the Football Letterman's Club during his tenure as assistant to the athletic director. He also was instrumental in putting in place Penn State's first NCAA compliance program and acted as the department's compliance coordinator for five years before surrendering those responsibilities when he was named Associate Athletic Director in 1992.

He is married to the former Melinda Harr of Washington, Pa., who earned degrees from Penn State in 1977 and 1986. The Curleys have two children — a daughter, Devon, and a son, Tanner. Curley was born on April 28, 1954.

- ✓ Study Hall Program
- ✓ BB H 148S: Coping with College
- ✓ BB H 048: Contemporary Health Topics Affecting Student-Athletes

TUTORING PROGRAM

The Morgan Academic Support Center offers free tutoring assistance to all student-athletes. Additionally, group tutoring sessions are regularly offered.

SUE PATRNO MENTORING PROGRAM

The MASCSA Sue Paterno Mentoring Program is designed to help student-athletes on their road to success by assisting in the development of transferable study and time management skills.

CAREER DEVELOPMENT

PREPARING FOR THE FUTURE

This Program offers a variety of services to aid student-athletes in identifying their skills and interests and in making decisions regarding their choice of major. Additionally, résumé and cover letter writing, career planning, and gaining professional employment are topics covered in the Jaffe Senior Seminar: Life After Sport.

MORGAN CENTER MISSION

Central to the mission of Intercollegiate Athletics is the opportunity for student-athletes to experience a well-rounded educational program at The Pennsylvania State University. The mission of the Morgan Academic Support Center for Student-Athletes is to provide appropriate academic support services and University Faculty Senate, NCAA, and Big Ten Conference academic eligibility information to all student-athletes. These services and information should assist student-athletes in achieving their academic goals while participating in a demanding NCAA Division I intercollegiate athletic program. These services also should ensure progress toward graduation through timely completion of degree requirements for baccalaureate and graduate programs.

SPORTS PSYCHOLOGY

A sport psychologist provides counseling and support to student-athletes in the areas of mental preparation strategies for training and competition, motivation and meaningful goal setting, visualization and performance planning, concentration and mental focusing, coping skill strategies for dealing with adversity, and, in general, issues pertaining to self-esteem development and student-athlete welfare.

ATHLETIC HONOR SOCIETY

The Athletic Honor Society, Spiritus Leonius (Spirit of the Lion), recognizes student-athletes for outstanding performance in athletics, academics, leadership, and community service.

SAAB

The Student-Athlete Advisory Board (SAAB) consists of one voting member and one or more alternates from each of Penn State's 29 varsity athletic teams. SAAB meets monthly to discuss any new developments within the NCAA, Big Ten Conference, and the University that affect all student-athletes at Penn State.

NAGLE CHAMPS/LIFE SKILLS PROGRAM

1998 NCAA PROGRAM OF EXCELLENCE

The Nagle CHAMPS (Challenging Athletes' Minds for Personal Success)/Life Skills Program has been a model program and a consulting resource for the NCAA since its inception in 1989. The Life Skills Program was developed to better prepare student-athletes for the challenges of life beyond the athletic arena.

SPEAKERS BUREAU

The Speaker's Bureau Program provides Penn State student-athletes with the opportunity to develop and utilize public presentation skills while giving back to the community.

PENN PAL PROGRAM

The "Penn" Pal Program enables student-athletes to correspond, on a monthly basis, with fourth-, fifth-, and sixth-grade students in local school districts.

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR'S LEADERSHIP INSTITUTE

The Institute provides opportunities for student-athletes to assess their leadership styles and experiences, to develop and enhance their leadership skills, and to determine what public service leadership means to them.

SHADOW PROGRAM

The goal of the program is to give elementary and middle school students the opportunity to tour campus, visit college classes, and interact with student-athletes on a one-to-one basis.

THON

Dance Marathon, often referred to as THON, is the largest student-run philanthropy in the nation, raising more than $59 million for the Four Diamonds Fund and children's cancer research since its inception in 1973.
